Material World Peter Menzel, Charles C. Mann, 1994 A photo journey through the homes and lives of 30 families revealing culture and economic levels around the world Material World Peter Menzel, Charles C. Mann, 1994 A fascinating project sponsored by a number of international organizations resulting in this richly intriguing book it will get well deserved promotion and distribution via all sorts of media Sixteen photographers traveled to 30 nations to live for a week with families that are statistically average for that nation At the end of each visit photographer and subjects collaborated on a portrait of the family outside of its home surrounded by all of its material possessions a few jars and jugs for some an abundance of electronic gadgetry for others The 360 color photos are accompanied by information about the standard of living in each country notes by the photographers about their experiences and profiles of family members and their lives Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Representing Consumers Barbara Stern, 2003-09-02 Representing Consumers explores representation and constructions of truth in consumer research Contributions come from the United States and Britain and draw on a wide range of theoretical approaches What Technology Wants Kevin Kelly, 2011-09-27 From the author of the New York Times bestseller The Inevitable a sweeping vision of technology as a living force that can expand our individual potential In this provocative book one of today's most respected thinkers turns the conversation about technology on its head by viewing technology as a natural system an extension of biological evolution By mapping the behavior of life we paradoxically get a glimpse at where technology is headed or what it wants Kevin Kelly offers a dozen trajectories in the coming decades for this near living system And as we align ourselves with technology's agenda we can capture its colossal potential This visionary and optimistic book explores how technology gives our lives greater meaning and is a must read for anyone curious about the future

Downsizing David Ekerdt, 2020-06-16 As life unfolds things tend to accumulate When older adults undergo health residential and marital changes they will face a reckoning with their lifelong store of possessions special ordinary and forgotten Such a predicament now confronts tens of millions of Americans as the Baby Boom cohort passes into retirement and beyond Despite what a thriving industry of clutter manuals tells us for most older adults downsizing is no simple task Drawing on in depth interviews with recent movers in over a hundred diverse U S households David Ekerdt analyzes the downsizing process and what it says about the meaning and management of possessions He details how households approach and accomplish downsizing exploring the decision making process and the effectiveness of different strategies From an expert gerontological perspective he considers the cognitive physical emotional and social tasks that the process entails and the role of factors such as gender and class on the divestment of things Ekerdt finds that despite the fatigue and emotional challenges people encounter afterward they report satisfaction in having completed a downsizing and feel empowerment on the other side of the task Offering an empathetic and practical look at one of life's major transitions Downsizing brings forward the voices of elders so that older adults their families and friends and practitioners
