50 Events That Shaped American Indian History Donna Martinez, Jennifer L. Williams Bordeaux, 2016-12-05 This powerful two volume set provides an insider s perspective on American Indian experiences through engaging narrative entries about key historical events written by leading scholars in American Indian history as well as inspiring first person accounts from American Indian peoples This comprehensive two volume resource on American Indian history covers events from the time of ancient Indian civilizations in North America to recent happenings in American Indian life in the 21st century providing readers with an understanding of not only what happened to shape the American Indian experience but also how these events some of which occurred long ago continue to affect people s lives today The first section of the book focuses on history in the pre European contact period documenting the tens of thousands of years that American Indians have resided on the continent in ancient civilizations in contrast with the very short history of a few hundred years following contact with Europeans during which time tremendous changes to American Indian culture occurred The event coverage continues chronologically addressing the early Colonial period and beginning of trade with Europeans and the consequential destruction of native economies to the period of Western expansion and Indian removal in the 1800s to events of forced assimilation and later self determination in the 20th century and beyond Readers will appreciate how American Indians continue to live rich cultural social and religious lives thanks to the activism of communities organizations and individuals and perceive how their inspiring collective story of self determination and sovereignty is far from over brings Nancy Marie Mithlo's Native insider perspective to understanding the significance of Indigenous arts in national and global milieus. These musings, written from the perspective of a senior academic and curator traversing a dynamic and at turns fraught era of Native self-determination, are a critical appraisal of a system that is often broken for Native peoples seeking equity in the arts. Mithlo addresses crucial issues such as the professionalization of Native arts scholarship, disparities in philanthropy and training, ethnic fraud, and the receptive scope of Native arts in new global and digital realms. This contribution to the field of fine arts broadens the scope of discussions and offers insights that are often excluded from contemporary appraisals.

Knowing Native Arts Nancy Marie Mithlo, 2020-09 Knowing Native Arts

Reproductive Justice Barbara Gurr, 2014-12-09 In Reproductive Justice, sociologist Barbara Gurr provides the first analysis of Native American women's reproductive healthcare and offers a sustained consideration of the movement for reproductive justice in the United States. The book examines the reproductive healthcare experiences on Pine Ridge Reservation, home of the Oglala Lakota Nation in South Dakota, where Gurr herself lived for more than a year. Gurr paints an insightful portrait of the Indian Health Service (IHS), the federal agency tasked with providing culturally appropriate, adequate healthcare to Native Americans, shedding much-needed light on Native American women's efforts to obtain prenatal care, access to contraception, abortion services, and access to care after sexual assault. Reproductive Justice goes beyond this local story to look more broadly at how race, gender, sex, sexuality, class, and nation inform the ways in which the government understands reproductive healthcare and organizes the delivery of this care. It reveals why the basic experience of reproductive healthcare for most Americans is so different and better than for Native American women in general and women in reservation communities, particularly. Finally, Gurr outlines the strengths that these communities can bring to the creation of their own reproductive justice and considers the role of IHS in fostering these strengths as it moves forward in partnership with Native nations. Reproductive Justice offers a respectful and informed analysis of the stories Native American women have to tell about their bodies, their lives, and their communities.

Indigenous Invisibility in the City Deirdre Howard-Wagner, 2020-11-17 Indigenous Invisibility in the City contextualises the significant social change in Indigenous life circumstances and resurgence that came out of social movements in cities. It is about Indigenous resurgence and community development by First Nations people for First Nations people in cities. Seventy-five years ago, First Nations peoples began a significant post-war period of relocation to cities in the United States, Canada, Australia, and Aotearoa New Zealand. First Nations peoples engaged in projects of resurgence and community development in the cities of the four settler states. First Nations peoples who were motivated by aspirations for autonomy and empowerment went on to create the foundations of Indigenous social infrastructure. This book explains the ways First Nations people in cities created and took control of their own futures, a fact largely wilfully ignored in policy contexts. Today, differences exist over the way governments and First Nations peoples see the role and responsibilities of Indigenous institutions in cities. What remains hidden in plain sight is their societal function as a social and political apparatus through which much of the social processes of Indigenous resurgence and community development in cities occurred The struggle for self determination in settler cities plays out through First Nations people s efforts to sustain their own institutions and resurgence but also rights and recognition in cities This book will be of interest to Indigenous studies scholars urban sociologists urban political scientists urban studies scholars and development studies scholars interested in urban issues and community building and development This book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license Indigenous Health and Justice Karen Jarratt-Snider, Marianne O.
