Co-treatment of Septage and Faecal Sludge in Sewage Treatment Facilities Dorai Narayana,2020-04-15 Over the past few years on site sanitation has been widely promoted as a solution which can be quickly implemented to address sanitation issues and it is gaining traction As such treatment of the contents emptied from on site containments has become a pressing issue While dedicated treatment facilities for this purpose have been advocated co treating these wastes in sewage treatment facilities is a promising option which many countries have implemented or are exploring This option maximises the utilisation of city infrastructure In cases where the existing sewage treatment facilities are underutilised co treatment presents a ready solution for managing fecal sludge and septage In spite of co treatment being a well known practice in many countries it remains clouded in uncertainty especially regarding the technical advisability and potential risks of co treating fecal sludge or septage in sewage treatment plants Planners and decision makers are often very apprehensive in considering co treatment As a result the opportunity to better utilise available infrastructure for co treatment of sludge is often being missed Meanwhile there are also many cases where co treatment has been tried either successfully or otherwise but it has not been possible to draw conclusions from these to guide the way forward This guide book explores some of the basic principles behind sewage treatment and how it may be impacted by co treatment of wastes from on site containments to try to throw some light on how co treatment could be considered in an incremental manner recognising risks and mitigating them It is intended to facilitate a better understanding among planners engineers decision makers and technical practitioners and to help them evaluate and consider the option of co treatment
