Death In The Forest; The Story Of The Katyn Forest Massacre J. K. Zawodny, 2015-11-06 MORE THAN 15 000 Polish soldiers among them 800 Doctors of Medicine were murdered in one operation Originally they had been taken into captivity by the Soviet Army in 1939 There was a possibility however that the prisoners while still alive had been taken from Soviet custody by German forces in 1941 Some of the bodies were found in German held territory The ropes with which their hands were tied were Soviet made but the bullets with which the men were killed were of German origin The Soviet and German governments accused each other of the massacre To obtain or remove the evidence the intelligence services of several nations carried on a merciless secret contest in the Katyn Forest Poland Germany Italy England and the United States Men disappeared so did files including one from the United States Military Intelligence Office In the process a key witness was found hanged diplomatic and military careers were destroyed in the United States personnel of the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg lied by omission and so did some of the greatest Allied leaders of the Second World War This book attempts to reconstruct in detail the fate of the prisoners and to provide the answers to these questions 1 Who killed these men 2 How were they killed 3 Why were they killed Class Cleansing Victor Zaslavsky, 2008 Le Massacre de Katyn Geoffrey Potocki de Montalk (Count.), 1971 The Katyn Forest Massacre United States. Le Massacre de Katyn Henri de Montfort, 1969 Katyn Massacre Louis FitzGibbon, 1977 The Katyn Forest Massacre United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on the Katyn Forest Massacre, 1952 Death in the Forest Janusz Kazimierz Zawodny, 1988 This scholarly work by an American professor if an analysis of the cold blooded murder of more than 15 000 Polish officers captured when the USSR invaded Poland in 1939 Mass graves of more than 4 000 of them were discovered after the Germans invaded the Soviet Union in 1941 The Soviets still have not admitted this heinous crime which has poisoned the relations between Poland and the Soviet Union

The Katyn Forest Massacre Andrew Kavchak, 2020-08-03 On 23 August 1939 Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union signed a non aggression treaty As part of their agreement secret protocols delineated their respective spheres of influence over the territory between them On 1 September 1939 Nazi Germany launched the Second World War by invading Poland from the West On 17 September the Soviet Union invaded Poland from the East The two totalitarian powers split Poland between them Approximately 250 000 Polish soldiers were captured by the Red Army About 15 000 military officers police officers and border guards were segregated and interned in three camps Starobelsk Kozelsk and Ostashkov On March 5 1940 NKVD Chief Beria provided Stalin with a written proposal to execute the Poles at the three camps as well as thousands of other Polish prisoners in the jails of Western Belorussia and Western Ukraine Beria described the Polish prisoners as sworn enemies of Soviet power filled with hatred for the Soviet system of government He proposed to apply to them the supreme punishment shooting In the operation that followed in April and May 1940 21 857 Poles were shot by the NKVD and buried in hidden mass graves On 22 June 1941 the Germans attacked the Soviet Union The Soviets then agreed to release the Poles in Soviet captivity and allow General W adys aw Anders to assume the command of a Polish Army to be formed on Soviet territory But where were the officers who were held at Starobelsk Kozelsk and Ostashkov Polish efforts to find them to them were futile as the Soviet authorities dodged the issue and gave evasive answers On 13 April 1943 the Nazis announced a gruesome discovery in the Katyn Forest where they found mass graves containing the bodies of thousands of Polish officers from the Kozelsk camp The Germans claimed the Polish officers were killed by the Soviets The Soviets responded by claiming that the Nazis had captured and killed the Polish officers in 1941 This Katyn Lie would be official Soviet and Communist narrative on the subject for the next 47 years On 13 April 1990 Soviet President Gorbachev provided the Polish Government with documents confirming that the Soviets were responsible for the Katyn Massacre On 14 October 1992 Russian President Yeltsin revealed the text of the execution order of March 5 1940 signed by Stalin The Katyn Forest Massacre An Annotated Bibliography of Books in English begins with a history of the Katyn Massacre and an overview of the literature on Katyn The subsequent chapters discuss the authors and contents of some 38 books that have been published over the decades in English about Katyn Each book contributed something to the evolving literature and general knowledge about the history of the Massacre Books were written by some prisoners who survived Czapski and M ynarski witnesses who were brought to the exhumations Stroobant and Werth diplomats and generals who tried to find out what happened to the missing officers Kot and Anders family members who were deported to Kazakhstan and Siberia Adamczyk researchers and historians Zawodny Ciencala Sanford and Maresch and authors who believed that raising awareness about Katyn was worthwhile because it might help rectify an injustice FitzGibbon and Allen Books written before the Soviet admission of guilt pointed an accusatory finger at the Kremlin Those written afterwards had the benefit of archival revelations that helped shed light on previously unknown details of the NKVD Katyn operation The Foreword is by Dr Alexander M Jablonski President of the Oskar Halecki Institute in Canada Andrew Kavchak studied political science M A Carleton University and law LL B Osgoode Hall Law School His grandfather was among the Polish officers held at Starobelsk and murdered at Kharkov in April 1940 in what has become known as the Katyn Massacre The Katyn Forest Massacre Charles River Editors,2016-09-11 Includes pictures Includes contemporary accounts of the massacre and its discovery Includes online resources and a bibliography for further reading Includes a table of contents It has been suggested that the motive for this terrible step was to reassure the Germans as to the reality of Soviet anti Polish policy This explanation is completely unconvincing in view of the care with which the Soviet regime kept the massacre secret from the very German government it was supposed to impress A more likely explanation is that the massacre should be seen as looking forward to a future in which there might again be a Poland on the Soviet Union s western border Since he intended to keep the eastern portion of the country in any case Stalin could be certain that any revived Poland would be unfriendly Under those circumstances depriving it of a large proportion of its military and technical elite would make it weaker Gerhard Weinberg During the late 1930s the Soviet Union under Josef Stalin and the Third Reich under Adolf Hitler reached a secret alliance the Molotov Ribbentrop Pact By the terms of this agreement the two dictators divided up Eastern Europe between them and for a time Stalin even sought Axis membership Though the alliance forged between the fascist and communist states could not survive their diametrically opposed views they cooperated long enough to conquer Poland together in 1939 Of course as most people now know the invasion of Poland was merely the preface to the Nazi blitzkrieg of most of Western Europe which would include Denmark Belgium and France by the summer of 1940 The resistance put up by these countries is often portrayed as weak and the narrative is that the British stood alone in 1940 against the Nazi onslaught defending the British Isles during the Battle of Britain and preventing a potential German invasion In particular the campaign in Poland is remembered as one in which an antiquated Polish army was quickly pummeled by the world s most modern army Polish lancers charging in a valiant yet idiotic attack against German tanks is the only image from the 1939 Nazi Soviet invasion of Poland remaining in the popular imagination today Originating as a piece of Nazi propaganda paradoxically adopted by the Poles as a patriotic myth the fictional charge obscures the actual events of September 1939 Outnumbered outgunned and under equipped the Polish army nevertheless inflicted heavy losses on the invading Wehrmacht In fact only the unexpected advance of Soviet forces from the east put a quick end to the struggle and saw the Polish republic partitioned again after just 20 years of independence Nonetheless the campaign that started World War II was a bloody sign of things to come as the conflict engulfed the globe While the Germans performed the lion s share of military action in defeating Poland and reaped the choicest regions for themselves as a consequence the Soviets showed themselves no laggards in establishing tyrannical control over the Polish zone assigned to them by treaty NKVD death squads mass deportations and systematic repression began almost immediately in the Soviet controlled part of Poland The Gestapo applied their own forms of brutality in the German zone of the conquered nation but the results proved starkly different A large scale well organized Polish Resistance movement flourished in the German zone exhibiting high morale and an activist approach that testified to the relatively amateurish nature of the Gestapo repression random violence for intimidation rather than systematic quashing of all independence and defiance The NKVD on the other hand managed to virtually eliminate any large scale resistance in the Russian zone The Soviet policy proved a dark success at least until the Wehrmacht surged crushingly across the border into the Soviet Union during the Operation Barbarossa offensive of June 1941 Le Massacre de Katyn. Crime Russe Ou Crime Allemand? [With Plates and Maps.]. Henri de MONFORT, 1966
