Family Language Transmission Brigitte E. Lambert, 2008 This book examines the whys and wherefores of family language transmission from the perspective of parents as language planners and managers of their linguistic resources It draws on a qualitative interview based study of twenty families in which German is was or could have been the target language Successive census analyses have charted a marked decline in the number of German speakers in Australia indicating that motivation for transmitting German has waned The situations where it is presently being transmitted are therefore particularly interesting Data analysis was facilitated by a decision map depicting the planning implementation and outcome phases of the transmission undertaking The main findings show that the parents decision is negotiated around their own needs interests and ambitions in terms of child focussed reciprocal and parent centred motives These in turn are linked to transmission strategies and the linguistic outcomes for the children Through an understanding of the motivational issues arising in this context it will hopefully be possible to better predict the effectiveness of the transmission strategies presently applied
