Museum Studies , Museums in Postcolonial Europe Dominic Thomas, 2013-09-13 The history of European nation building and identity formation is inextricably connected with museums and the role they play in displaying the acquired spoils and glorious symbols of geopolitical power in order to mobilize public support for expansionist ventures This book examines the contemporary debate surrounding the museum in postcolonial Europe Although there is no consensus on the European colonial experience the process of decolonization in Europe has involved an examination of the museum's place and ethnic minorities and immigrants have insisted upon improved representation in the genealogies of European nation states Museological practices have been subjected to greater scrutiny in light of these political and social transformations In addition to the refurbishment and restructuring of colonial era museums new spaces have also been inaugurated to highlight the contemporary importance of museums in postcolonial Europe as well as the significance of incorporating the perspective of postcolonial European populations into these spaces This book includes contributions from leading experts in their fields and represents a comparative trans historical and transcolonial examination which contextualises and reinterpretes to the legacies and experiences of European museums This book was published as a special issue of Africa and Black Diaspora An International Journal

Doing Museology Differently Duncan Grewcock, 2013-09-05 One might believe that museum studies is a stable field of academic inquiry based on a set of familiar institutional forms and functions But as institutions museums have never been stable or singular and neither has the discipline of museum studies Museum studies as a field of academic inquiry has received little critical attention One result of this neglect has arguably been a lack of invention in museum studies another is the distancing of academic museum studies from museum practice Doing Museology Differently charts a different course A critical creative reflection on academic practice the book takes the form of a narrative account of museological fieldwork A research story unfolds challenging academic conventions at the level of its own presentation the book combines critical museum visiting with an autobiographical voice The identification of a previously underexplored interdisciplinary space leads the author to experiment with museum studies using contemporary developments in the theory and practice of human geography The new approaches to museological research and representation that emerge from this unique inquiry challenge assumed institutional and intellectual boundaries and act as a call to further creative experimentation Cultural Heritage in a Changing World Karol Jan Borowiecki, Neil Forbes, Antonella Fresa, 2016-05-02 The central purpose of this collection of essays is to make a creative addition to the debates surrounding the cultural heritage domain In the 21st century the world faces epochal changes which affect every part of society including the arenas in which cultural heritage is made held collected curated exhibited or simply exists The book is about these changes about the decentring of culture and cultural heritage away from institutional structures towards the individual about the questions which the advent of digital technologies is demanding that we ask and answer in relation to how we understand collect and make available Europe s cultural heritage Cultural heritage has enormous potential in terms of its contribution to improving the quality of life for people understanding the past assisting territorial cohesion driving economic growth opening up employment opportunities and supporting wider developments such as improvements in education and in artistic careers Given that spectrum of possible benefits to society the range of studies that follow here are intended to be a resource and stimulus to help inform not just professionals in the sector but all those with an interest in cultural heritage A New Role for Museum Educators Elizabeth Wood, 2023-06-26 A New Role for Museum Educators shows how learning happens in communities how volunteers and professionals approach their work the underlying principles and philosophies that guide the work of museum education and how these practices are always evolving to remain relevant Museum education in its most expansive definition is about communicating messages creating learning experiences and at its most aspirational promoting human development for people of all backgrounds abilities and circumstances This edited volume revisits the legacy of museum education practices reflecting on the changing context of community and the role of cultural institutions and provides insights into new directions that museums can take with a visitor centered mindset It provides foundational concepts around educational philosophies that guide practice applied methods and approaches for implementation and the ethos of an educational institution intended to support community learning and engagement that are essential to provide for the wide ranging needs of all audiences International perspectives from a variety of museums are considered including art museums children s museums history museums and historic sites science museums botanical gardens zoos and aquariums Chapters include thought provoking reflections on contemporary practices concrete examples from across the globe and useful tools for anyone working with public audiences Grounded in practice and informed by research this volume will be a go to resource for arts and cultural organization practitioners particularly those working in Museum Education It will also be essential reading for students of Museum Studies Education and related fields Museums in Arabia Karen Exell, Sarina Wakefield, 2016-05-12 Museum activity has in recent years undergone major and rapid development in the Arabian Peninsula with the regeneration of existing museums as well as the establishment of new ones. Alongside such rapid expansion questions are inevitably raised as to the new challenges museums face in this region and whether the museum as a central focus of heritage preservation also runs the risk of overshadowing local forms of heritage performance and preservation. With contributions from leading academics from a range of disciplines and heritage practitioners with first hand experience of working in the region this volume addresses the issues and challenges facing museums in Kuwait Saudi Arabia Qatar Yemen and the UAE. It focuses on the themes of politics public engagement and the possibility of a new museum paradigm which might appropriately reflect the interests and culture of the region. The interdisciplinary approaches analyse museum development from both an inside and outside perspective suggesting that museums do not follow a uniform trajectory across the region but are embedded within each state's socio cultural context individual government agendas and political realities. Including case study analysis which brings the more marginal nations into the debates as well as new empirical data and critical evaluation of the role of the museum in the Arabian Peninsula societies this book adds fresh perspectives to the study of Gulf heritage and museology. It will appeal to regional and international practitioners and academics across the disciplines of museum studies cultural studies and anthropology as well as to anyone with an interest in the Gulf and Middle East.
