

The background of the book cover is a dramatic landscape. In the upper half, a large, dark, winged figure, possibly a demon or a large bird, is silhouetted against a dark, stormy sky. The figure's wings are spread wide, and its tail feathers are visible. In the lower right corner, a person is walking away from the viewer across a dry, reddish-brown landscape. The person is wearing a patterned garment and carrying a red bowl on their head. The overall mood is mysterious and ominous.

Mission Song The John Le Carrac:

The Mission Song John le Carré, 2006-09-01 Full of politics heart and the sort of suspense that nobody in the world does better The Mission Song turns John Le Carre's laser eye for the complexity of the modern world on turmoil and conspiracy in Africa Abandoned by both his Irish father and Congolese mother Bruno Salvador has long looked for someone to guide his life He has found it in Mr Anderson of British Intelligence Bruno's African upbringing and fluency in numerous African languages has made him a top interpreter in London useful to businesses hospitals diplomats and spies Working for Anderson in a clandestine facility known as the Chat Room Salvo as he's known translates intercepted phone calls bugged recordings and snatched voice mail messages When Anderson sends him to a mysterious island to interpret during a secret conference between Central African warlords Bruno thinks he is helping Britain bring peace to a bloody corner of the world But then he hears something he should not have By turns thriller love story and comic allegory of our times The Mission Song is a crowning achievement recounting an interpreter's heroically naive journey out of the dark of Western hypocrisy and into the heart of lightness

The Mission Song John le Carre, 2007-11-14 Gripping and moving A marvelous return to the John le Carre of old with all the captivating characters finely rendered landscapes and messy complexities that have always powered his best work San Francisco Chronicle Hailed everywhere as a masterpiece of suspense John le Carre's return to Africa is the story of Bruno Salvador aka Salvo the 25 year old orphaned love child of an Irish missionary and a Congolese woman Quickly rising to the top of his profession as an interpreter Salvo is dispatched by British Intelligence to a top secret meeting between Western financiers and East Congolese warlords where he hears things not intended for his ears and is forced to interpret matters never intended for his reawakened African conscience By turns thriller love story and comic allegory of our times The Mission Song recounts Salvo's heroically naive journey out of the dark of Western hypocrisy and into the heart of lightness Entertaining Salvo may be the author's most naive creation to date but he is also one of the most fascinating and engaging The atmosphere of intrigue builds nicely and convincingly Baltimore Sun An incendiary tale Le Carre's understanding of how the world ticks is as always machete sharp USA TODAY To categorize Le Carre as many do as a spy novelist is to do him a disservice he uses the world of cloak and dagger much as Conrad used the sea to explore the dark places in human nature Washington Post Book World Le Carre's insight into the dense dangerous nexus of corporate and government interests is chillingly assured New York Times Book Review Engaging masterfully told The Mission Song offers an emotional resonance that stays with a reader long after the book is done Cleveland Plain Dealer
