Public Building and Civic Identity in Augustan and Julio-Claudian Athens Geoffrey C. R. Schmalz, 1994 Desire in Paul's Undisputed Epistles Andrew Bowden, 2020-12-18 In this study Andrew Bowden analyzes Paul's use of desire and in his undisputed epistles After introducing critical research on these lexemes the author applies John Lyons's theory of semantic analysis to the use of in Roman imperial texts Based on these observations he makes a hypothesis concerning the common co-occurrences of desire in Roman imperial texts its antonyms the objects it longs for and its use within metaphorical discourse This hypothesis is then tested by looking at the use of desire in Dio Chrysostom Epictetus Lucian of Samosata the Cynic epistles and Second Temple Jewish texts Andrew Bowden illustrates how contrary to the view of many scholars these Roman imperial authors consistently mention positive objects of desire He then applies these findings concerning desire to Paul yielding important and sometimes unexpected discoveries History of Political Thought, 2009

Scripta classica Israelica, 2001 The Limits of Participation Riet van Bremen, 1996 In the cities of the Greek East during the late Hellenistic and Roman periods female members of local ruling elites played a prominent and visible role in public life In the large body of inscriptions documenting public life in the cities of Asia Minor and to a lesser extent mainland Greece and the islands they appear as civic benefactors or undertaking civic offices and liturgies In previous studies of this subject attention has focussed almost entirely on the nature of women's political prominence which is usually interpreted as a result of increased female dependence and power in the legal and economic sphere This study argues that notions of emancipation or increased freedom and power rest on a misinterpretation of women's social legal and economic position and are unhelpful in understanding the general developments that affected women's civic roles Arctos, 2002 Finance for a Better World Henri-Claude de Bettignies, François Lépineux, 2009-04-15 What has prompted the shift toward sustainability in numerous financial areas Can investors' mindsets be changed to embrace a long term view Can shareholders and activists play a greater role in encouraging financial actors to behave more responsibly These are some of the relevant topics that are explored in this forward looking set of essays Rocznik Papirologii Prawniczej, 1998 Environment and Planning, 2007

Lewis, John Boardman, J. K. Davies, M. Ostwald, 1992 Volume V of the new edition of The Cambridge Ancient History encompasses the first Classic age of European civilization the fifth century BC This was the first and last period before the Romans in which great political and military power was located in the same place as cultural importance This volume therefore is more narrowly focused geographically than its predecessors and successors and hardly strays beyond Greece Athens is at the center of the picture both politically and culturally but events and achievements elsewhere are assessed as carefully as the nature of our sources allows Two series of narrative chapters one on the growth of the Athenian empire and the development of Athenian democracy the other on the Peloponnesian War that brought them down are divided by a series of studies in which the artistic and literary achievements of the fifth century are described
