Cultural Analysis Hans Gullestrup,2006 With internationalization the world is becoming smaller and the opportunity to meet people from other countries and cultures is becoming more common providing the need for cooperation shared knowledge and cross border trade Individual cultures tend to understand themselves best and base their understanding of the world and its peoples on ideas they each have come to believe irrespective of reality and thus make it difficult to reach a proper understanding of other cultures This book considers intercultural understanding and co action partly by means of general insights into the concept of culture and the dimensions which bring about cultural differences and partly as a methodology to analyze a certain culture whether one s own or others This leads towards an understanding of cultural complexity and cultural differences among people The book provides a discussion of a number of ethical issues which almost invariably will arise when people meet and co act across cultural boundaries Cultural Analysis offers a theoretical abstract proposal for cultural understanding intercultural plurality and complexity

Deontology, Responsibility, and Equality Kasper Lippert-Rasmussen,2005 Three questions that loom large in moral and political philosophy are these Can deontological moral constraints be justified When if ever are we morally responsible for what we do How is the ideal of equality best configured Deontology Responsibility and Equality deals with selected aspects of these three broad questions It critically discusses certain attempts by Frances Kamm and Thomas Nagel

among others to account for the impermissibility of minimizing violations in terms of moral status Also it challenges the view that there is a morally relevant difference between doing and allowing harm and especially between killing and letting die In relation to the second question it concentrates on recent developments within compatibilist accounts of moral responsibility prompted by the work of Harry Frankfurt It challenges his purported refutation of the principle of alternative possibilities as well as certain positive compatibilist identification based accounts of respon

Beyond Structure and Rationality Jan Molin,1987 The occasion for the project was the change in the administration of the handicapped within the public sector and the objective of the research process was to monitor the organizational response to this mandatory change in task The project was intended to be a process of action research that included two aspects first of all an intensive comparative analysis of four public organizations facing the new task of administrating the handicapped and secondly to create a participatory scheme of organizational change in one of the four public organizations After discussing the data in the research group and after analyzing the pictures of the four organizations that emerged from the analysis we were astonished to find that among the four departments there were no less than three very different organizational responses to the new task of administrating the handicapped clients

Moving Mountains

Marie H. Roesgaard,1998 The Japanese educational system is admired and envied for its success in providing a well educated population and contributing to the spectacular post War industrialisation and modernisation of the nation It is also criticised for inhibiting creativity and spontaneity seen as crucial talents in the forthcoming information age Moving Mountains is based on two propositions that the educational system is undergoing a number of changes despite charges to the contrary and that there is a conflict between the rhetoric of the National Council on Education Reform undertaken by Prime Minister Nakasone 1982 1987 and its emphasis on issues like internationalism vis vis the national and economic needs as defined by the politicians
