Limerick Through The Lens Pictures From The Limerick Leader Archive:

Limerick Through the Lens Alan English, 2014 In the archives of the Limerick Leader are thousands of photographic images This collection contains some of the best of these pictures from the mid to late twentieth century It is an engaging snapshot of the doings of mostly ordinary people people at work shopping or celebrating children at school dignitaries visiting sportsmen and women in action sports fans cheering historic events and personalities from the worlds of politics music and many more RTÉ 100 Years Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill, 2001 Standard World Atlas C.S. gathering dust throughout the city and it is our mission to seek out these images and put them on public display in a permanent online archive available to present and future generations of Limerick people and their descendants long into the future Using modern social media as a crowdsourcing tool Limerick History Gazette was launched and in a matter of months thousands of Limerick people all over the world joined the project and started to donate images from their own private collections We reached out to the people of Limerick and they responded in a most amazing way and within months we had gathered in excess of 20 000 archivable images and still growing It is an exhaustive but worthy process selecting images for our archive as we go through thousands of images to unearth the diamonds but by monitoring and gaging the reaction of our members to each image it has simplified the task and each archived image is therefore selected by our members for inclusion in our archive However there is no formula that makes one picture more historically important than another some images appear because they give us a deeper understanding of how ordinary life was for the people of Limerick in the 20th Century while others reflect the sense of community that existed on the streets of the city north south east and west Many images are also archived because they directly showed the way we lived celebrated loved and shared our greatest moments and our darkest days In the process of building this archive it becomes crystal clear that the photographer had to be present to bear witness to the unfolding events in the hope that history as it happened and the documenting of it with the tangible evidence of a photograph can create an atmosphere where change is possible Modern history is filled with famous photographs images that speak to us in many ways They show us the very best that humanity is capable of as well as the very worst and everything in between and the same can be said of the not so famous private home collections of the ordinary people of the world With camera in hand they too can capture moments in history that defined their families their neighborhoods their city and their world Whether we know the stories behind these individual images or not they do tell us a different story because they define us and show us from where we came and where we should be going Limerick History Gazette 8 Gerry Hannan,2018-03-27 This series of 100 books is compiled and edited by Limerick Historian Archivist Entrepreneur Gerard J Hannan BA MBS Limerick History Gazette began life in September 2015 when Hannan began to gather 20 000 previously unpublished images of Limerick in the 20th Century Using social media he crowdsourced the images and built an online archive at www.limerickgazette.com where they will remain permanently archived for present and future generations of Limerick people worldwide All of the images in the archive belong to the people of 20th Century Limerick and come from their own private home collections These are images captured throughout the century by the people who lived their lives on the streets and lanes of Limerick and as such witnessed first hand the history of their native city unfold and opted to capture it forever in photographic form This fact makes the archive unique because what they captured was Limerick life from their perspective and their images show us their reality and what was important to them In fact unintentionally or otherwise this is a pure unbiased representation of historical fact as evidenced by the images themselves However it is not sufficient to just produce a book of images without trying to capture the social and economic environment in which these people lived To achieve this Hannan has searched through local national and international newspaper archives to ascertain what was important to the people of 20th Century Limerick The combination of images and text in each edition of Limerick History Gazette will permit us to see and experience 20th Century Limerick in a way which up until the current digital era has never allowed before
