These observations, which are often ignored or dismissed, are the most important ones. Furthermore, because of the relatively low level of the general literacy skills of the young adults, the results of the assessment are often more difficult to interpret than they are. Indeed, as the study results indicate, the observed gender differences in literacy skills are often small, and the results are often inconsistent. This may be explained by the fact that the study was conducted in a rural area, and the results may be different in other areas.
