Gero,1991 Artificial Intelligence in Design 91 is a collection of 47 papers from the First International Conference on Artificial Intelligence in Design held at Edinburgh in June 1991 The papers in this book are grouped into 13 headings starting with a background of AI design systems and to which extent AI that results from being used as planning tool be applied to quality oriented design processes in architecture A constraint driven approach to object oriented design is also shown on real world objects The use of CADSYN in the structural design of buildings is examined along with design dependent knowledge and design independent knowledge Discussions on empowering designers with integrated design environments are given whereby design objects may be retrieved from catalogues without requiring users to form queries Mention is given to automated adjustment of parameter values frequently used in computer routine applications The book also introduces the Computer Aided Design CAD as applied to architecture Design representation using data models non monotonic reasoning in design and the cognitive aspects of design using empirical studies are discussed Topics of the industrial applications of AI in design such as the needed steps to develop a successful AI based tool and a review of the Castlemain Project and telecommunication distribution networks follow This book is suitable for programmers computer science students and architects and engineers who use computers in their line of work The Living Church ,1922 Ecohydraulics 2000 Michel Leclerc,1996 Numerical Methods and Scientific Computing Norbert Köckler,1994 This introduction to software packages is written specifically for scientists and engineers who write programmes to get numerical results It covers the whole range of numerical mathematics from linear equations to ordinary differential equations with short sections on the calculus of error and partial differential equations As it aims to give a unified approach to theory algorithms applications and the use of software the emphasis is on examples and applications rather than proofs This book is appearing at the same time as PAN software that contains all the programs described in the book and additional useful software such as help systems and utility tools as well as an enlarged hypertext version of the text Computer Algebra in Scientific Computing CASC'99 Victor G. Ganzha,Ernst W. Mayr,1999-05-31 The development of powerful computer algebra systems has considerably extended the scope of problems of scientific computing which can now be solved successfully with the aid of computers. However, as the field of applications of computer algebra in scientific computing becomes broader and more complex, there is a danger of separation between theory, systems, and applications. For this reason, we felt the need to bring together the researchers who now apply the tools of computer algebra for the solution of problems in scientific computing in order to foster new and closer interactions. CASC 99 is the second conference devoted to applications of computer algebra in scientific computing. The first conference in this sequence, CASC 98, was held 20–24 April 1998 in St. Petersburg, Russia. This volume contains revised versions of the papers submitted by the participants and accepted by the program committee after a thorough reviewing process. The collection of papers included in the proceedings covers various topics of computer algebra: methods, algorithms, and software applied to scientific computing; symbolic, numeric, analysis, and solving differential equations; efficient computations with polynomials, groups, matrices, and other related objects; special purpose programming environments; application to physics, mechanics, optics, and to other areas. In particular, a significant group of papers deals with applications of computer algebra methods for the solution of current problems in group theory, which mostly arise in mathematical physics.
