Exploring Airport Employee Commute and Parking Strategies Diane M. Ricard, 2012 Airport employees are vital to the operation of an airport. They staff the airport on a daily basis from well before the first flight operation until after the last flight operation which at many airports is 24 hours a day 365 days a year. Airport employees generate a significant number of vehicle trips to and from the airport each day which impacts air quality, airport traffic conditions and traffic in the communities surrounding the airport and on the freeway system. The purpose of this report was to determine what is known about airport employee commute patterns and commute modes, what programs are being offered to airport employees by the airport operator or a transportation management association (TMA) to provide them with alternatives to the drive alone commute to work, how progress is being monitored, what is known about the effectiveness of airport employee commute options, ECO programs, what the challenges are for the providers of such programs and to research some ECO programs offered by non airport employers for program elements that may have applicability in the airport environment. This report was accomplished through a literature search of airport employee commute programs, commute programs offered by non airport employers that may have applicability in the airport environment and through interviews with four U.S. and one U.K. airport operators of 16 airports and 3 TMAs identified 84 percent interviewed that offer comprehensive airport ECO programs. Each of the five case studies provides an example of how ECO strategies are applied in the airport environment.

The focus is on aiding transportation transit and land use planners in their conduct of travel demand and related analyses and to inform elected officials, administrators, operators, designers and the general public as well. The Traveler Response to Transportation System Changes Handbook consists of the Chapter 1 introductory materials and 15 stand alone published topic area chapters. Each topic area chapter provides traveler response findings including supportive information and interpretation and also includes case studies and a bibliography consisting of the references utilized as sources. Please note that Chapters 4, 7 and 8 have been deferred for a future TCRP project effort The Handbook findings derive primarily from reported results and analyses of real world transportation system and policy applications and trials Experimental or quasi experimental empirical data have been the information source of choice Other empirical data derivations and simple accounts of outcomes have been employed as necessary Forecasts and other estimates derived from travel demand model applications and similar techniques have been used but on a very selective basis mostly for augmenting the empirical data where gaps exist and for providing additional insights and context TCRP Report 95 Traveler Response to Transportation System Changes Handbook will be of interest to transit transportation and land use planning practitioners transportation engineers land developers employers and school administrators researchers and educators and professionals across a broad spectrum of transportation and planning metropolitan planning organizations and local state and federal government agencies taken from publisher web site
