

Master Budget with Supporting Schedules

You have been hired as a management trainee by Cravat Sales Company, a nationwide distributor of designer silk ties. The company has an exclusive franchise on the distribution of the ties, and sales have grown so rapidly over the last few years that it has become necessary to add new members to the management team. You have been given responsibility for all planning and budgeting. Your first assignment is to prepare a master budget for the next three months, starting April 1. You are anxious to make favorable impression on the President and have assembled the information below.

The company desires a minimum ending cash balance each month of $10,000. The ties are sold to retailers for $8 each. Recent and forecasted sales in units are as follows:

| | | | |
|------------------------|--------|----------------|--------|
| January (actual)..... | 20,000 | June..... | 60,000 |
| February (actual)..... | 24,000 | July..... | 40,000 |
| March (actual)..... | 28,000 | August..... | 36,000 |
| April | 35,000 | September..... | 32,000 |
| May | 45,000 | | |

The large buildup in sales before and during June is due to Fathers' Day. Ending inventories are to equal 90% of the next month's sales in units. The ties cost the company $5 each. Purchases are paid for as follows: 50% in the month of purchase and the remaining 50% in the following month. All sales are on credit, with no discounts, and payable within 15 days. The company has found, however, that only 25% of a month's sales are collected by month-end. An additional 50% is collected in the following month, and the remaining 25% is collected in the second month following sale. Bad debts have been negligible.

The company's monthly operating expenses are given below:

Variable:

Sales commissions..... $1 per tie

Fixed:

Wages and salaries..... $22,000

Utilities

$14,000

Insurance

$1,200

Depreciation.....

$1,500

Miscellaneous.....

$3,000
