

- Bus :

1. Bus topology is a network topology in which all the nodes are connected to a single cable known as a central cable or bus.
2. It acts as a shared communication medium, i.e., if any device wants to send the data to other devices, then it will send the data over the bus which in turn sends the data to all the attached devices.
3. Bus topology is useful for a small number of devices.
4. As if the bus is damaged then the whole network fails.

- Mesh :

1. Mesh topology is a network topology in which all the nodes are individually connected to other nodes.
2. It does not need any central switch or hub to control the connectivity among the nodes.
3. Mesh topology is categorized into two parts: Fully connected mesh topology: In this topology, all the nodes are connected to each other. Partially connected mesh topology: In this topology, all the nodes are not connected to each other.
4. It is robust as a failure in one cable will only disconnect the specified computer connected to this cable.
5. Mesh topology is rarely used as installation and configuration are difficult when connectivity gets more.
6. Cabling cost is high as it requires bulk wiring.
