Readings in Science Methods, K-8 Eric Brunzell, 2008 If you're teaching an introductory science education course in a college or university Readings in Science Methods K-8 with its blend of theory, research, and examples of best practices can serve as your only text, your primary text, or a supplemental text

Resources in Education, 1982 Identity, Oppression, and Diversity in Archaeology Laura E. Heath-Stout, 2024-10-31 Identity, Oppression, and Diversity in Archaeology documents how racism, classism, sexism, heterosexism, and ableism affect the demographics of archaeology and discusses how knowledge that archaeologists produce is shaped by the discipline's demographic homogeneity. Previous research has shown that like many academic fields, archaeology is numerically dominated by straight white cisgender people, and those in positions of authority are predominantly men. This book examines how and why those demographic trends persist. It also elucidates how individual archaeologists' social identities shape the research they conduct and therefore how our demographics affect and limit our knowledge production on a disciplinary scale. It explains how, through unflinching reflection, proactive policymaking, and sincere community building, we can build a diverse and inclusive discipline. This book will appeal to archaeologists who have an interest in diversity and inclusion within the discipline, as well as scholars in other disciplines who are engaged in research on diversity in academia

Para-States and Medical Science Paul Wenzel Geissler, 2015-04-07 In Para States and Medical Science, P. Wenzel Geissler and the contributors examine how medicine and public health in Africa have been transformed as a result of economic and political liberalization and globalization intertwined with epidemiological and technological changes. The resulting fragmented medical science landscape is shaped and sustained by transnational flows of expertise and resources. NGOs, universities, pharmaceutical companies, and other nonstate actors now play a significant role in medical research and treatment. But as the contributors to this volume argue, these groups have not supplanted the primacy of the nation-state in Africa. Although not necessarily stable or responsive, national governments remain crucial in medical care, both as employers of health care professionals and as sources of regulation, access, and (albeit sometimes counterintuitively) trust for their people. The state has morphed into the para-state, not a monolithic and predictable source of sovereignty and governance but a shifting and at times ephemeral figure. Tracing the emergence of the global health paradigm in Africa in the treatment of HIV, malaria, and leprosy, this book challenges familiar notions of African statehood as weak or illegitimate by elaborating complex new frameworks of governmentality that can be simultaneously functioning and dysfunctional. Contributors: Uli Beisel, Didier Fassin, P. Wenzel Geissler, Rene Gerrets, Ann Kelly, Guillaume Lachenal, John Manton, Lotte Meinert, Vinh Kim Nguyen, Branwyn Poleykett, Susan Reynolds, Whyte
