Ecology the scientific study of the abundance and distribution of organisms in relation to other organisms and environmental conditions.

- α. Rapid growth of human population and the increasing of scientific tools/technological advances have caused major changes in our environment = to dramatic changes.
- α. Ecological systems: biological entities that have both their own internal processes and yet interact with their external surroundings.
 - Can be an individual, a population, a community, an ecosystem, or an entire biosphere.
 - Form a hierarchy
 - Individual: a living being; the most fundamental unit of ecology. Contains a membrane or other covering across which exchanges energy and materials with the environment. The process of transforming energy and processing materials changes the condition of the environment and availability of resources to other organisms.
 - Species: no fitting definition.

Has five distinct properties: geographic range (extent of land/water where a population lives), abundance (total number of individuals), density (total number of individuals per unit area), change in size (inc and/or dec of individuals in a certain area), and composition (makeup of the populations, meaning age, gender, genetics).
 - Community: composed of all populations of species living together in a particular area.
 - Ecosystems: composed of one or more communities of living organisms interacting with their nonliving physical and chemical environments including water, air, temperature, sunlight, nutrients; Focus on movement of energy and matter between physical and biological components. Most energy flows originate from sunlight and eventually it escapes as radiated heat. Or, sunlight is converted into organic compounds by photosynthetic plants and algae.
 - Common elements: hydrogen, oxygen, phosphorus, carbon.
 - The biosphere: includes all the ecosystems of the earth. All transformations in the biosphere are internal except for entering the sun and the energy that is lost in space.
 - Individual approach: the way an animals morphology (size and shape of body), physiological, and behavior enable it to survive in its environment; helps understand why organisms live in the environment that they do. Adaptations: characteristics that make them well suitable for its environment. It is a result of evolutionary change through natural selection.
 - Population approach: examine variation over time and space in the number of individuals, the density of individuals, including sex ratio, distributions among individuals among different age classes and genetic makeup of a population.
 - Community approach: the diversity and relative abundances of different kinds of organisms living together in the same place. Focuses on interactions between
