

A woman in a long, dark, flowing dress is captured in a graceful dance pose on a wooden pier. She is silhouetted against a bright, low sun that creates a strong lens flare and illuminates the scene with a warm, golden light. The sun is positioned directly behind her head, creating a halo effect. Her arms are extended outwards, and her dress is caught in a swirl. The pier extends from the bottom left towards the center, meeting the ocean. The ocean's surface is textured with small waves, reflecting the golden light. The sky is a gradient of warm colors, from deep orange near the horizon to a lighter, hazy yellow at the top. In the upper left corner, there are faint, stylized illustrations of leaves and small orange berries. The overall mood is romantic and evocative.

Me Without You (The Moorehouse Legacy, Book 2) Jessica Bird,2014-04-01 From that first look to this first kiss All Alex could see was her long thick gorgeous hair Pale smooth skin Lips that were naturally tinted pink Eyes that were green like sea grass He stopped himself His best friend Reese might be dead But in Alex s mind Cassandra was still very much the man s wife She was out of bounds The Defence of Mr. M. Moorhouse, Written by Himself Michael MOORHOUSE,1789

A Man in a Million Jessica Bird,2009-09-01 As far as bad boy Spike Moriarty was concerned Madeline Maguire defined female perfection When they d met she d walked up as if she wasn t the most gorgeous thing on the planet and asked to see his tattoos He a tough guy who d make grown men run had just about passed out But their connection was definitely one way it had to be Because he could never be the man in a million she was looking for not with the things he d done and seen So for as long as she d let him he d give her whatever she wanted He d worry about her walking away when it happened The Rogue J. R. Ward,2015-10-19 Only one woman can get past his guard The Moorehouse Legacy finale from New York Times bestselling author J R Ward writing as Jessica Bird Michael Spike Moriarty has had a thing for Madeline Maguire ever since she first walked up to him as if she wasn t the most gorgeous woman on the planet and asked to see his tattoos But he knows that the attraction can only go one way he could never be the man for her He has a dark history that very few know about and even worse it s all about to come to the surface Madeline s been burned enough in the past to know better but Spike is the only man that has caught her eye time and time again For some reason he s determined to avoid her but when she desperately needs help to ward off her scheming family Spike is the one at her side And even though he says they can only be friends his actions speak a very different story A reader favorite story originally published as A Man in a Million Where Everybody Looks Like Me Ron Stodghill,2024-05-21 A richly reported account of the forces threatening America s historic black colleges and universities and how diverse leaders nationwide are struggling to keep these institutions and black culture alive for future generations American education is under siege and few parts of the system are more threatened than black colleges and universities Once hailed as national treasures historically black colleges and universities HBCUs such as Spelman College Morehouse College and Howard University the backbone of the nation s black middle class which have produced legends including Dr Martin Luther King Jr Thurgood Marshall and Oprah Winfrey are in a fight for survival The threats are numerous Republican state legislators are determined to merge consolidate or shut down historically black colleges and universities Ivy League institutions are poaching the best black high school students President Obama s push for heightened performance standards and cuts in loan funding from the U S Department of Education In this tightly woven narrative full of intriguing characters Where Everybody Looks Like Me chronicles this near breaking point for black colleges Award winning journalist Ron Stodghill offers a rare behind closed doors look into the private world of the boards of directors the black intelligentsia the leaders of business law politics culture and sports and other influential figures involved in the debate and battle to save these institutions Told from the perspective of a family Where Everybody Looks Like Me shows their struggle to secure the best education for their child Where Everybody Looks Like Me is a tale of vision and vanity of boardroom backbiting financial chicanery idealism and passion Here are administrators celebrities alumni and others whose lives are intricately tied to these institutions and their fate whether they will remain strong and vital or become a revered part of our cultural past

First, Best Steven L. Reed, Fagan Harris, 2023-10-10 The first Black mayor of Montgomery Alabama shares his story of making his way in a world that wasn't built for him drawing on his rich heritage as the son of a civil rights leader As a proud son of a civil rights leader Steven L Reed grew up hearing stories about how his father integrated Montgomery lunch counters and took advice directly from Dr Martin Luther King Jr and Reverend Ralph Abernathy However it wasn't until Reed was in the fourth grade and received a death threat against his father that he began to understand more fully the importance of the lessons his father was trying to impart At this pivotal moment his father explained My job is to prepare you to be a cross bearer and not just a crown wearer Bigotry has no place in our household It will only hold you down and make you small First Best is an essential antidote to the perpetual dehumanization and distortions of Black men in our culture and media By sharing the story of forging his own path Reed offers an alternative narrative to Black men coming of age catalyzing their hope and sense of possibility Although Reed took a circuitous path to the office of mayor that began by forging his identity at Morehouse College pursuing entrepreneurship and exploring the wider world and serving as a probate judge each step was guided by the values of his father's generation First Best is not just about assuming the mantle of manhood or leadership nor is it only about the expectation of greatness Fundamentally it's about responsibility and preparation serving others and being willing to pay the price of leadership by carrying the weight of each decision First Best affirms the next generation of Black men and women by showing through story and example their power and potential in a world that doesn't always root for them
