

SessionLab's Complete Guide to Workshop Planning

Designing and running a workshop in four phases

We have divided the process of designing a workshop step-by-step into four sections. This framework is an invitation to move in a structured way from dreaming to designing, from designing to doing, and from doing to trying.

1. Action and learning is divided into specific actions you need to take first.

2. In isolation, it can be the work of a facilitator and a client or an entire team of specialists, speakers, and more.

3. In process, we've included a set of tools to use when getting together during the design process. This section.

Four steps workshop planning process, inspired by the Designing Design methodology, as outlined by John Doe.
