Beyond the Horizons Shimwaayi Muntemba, Lily Mubitana Monze, 2024-09-24 Beyond the Horizons Chipembi School Blazes the Trail for Girls Education and Empowerment in Zambia is a history of Chipembi School its role in the evangelizing policies of the Methodist Missionary Society whose Wesleyan branch founded the school in 1912 its development as the leading school for African girls in the colonial period and the first and until 1956 the only school to offer secondary education to them It follows the development of the school after Independence its initial problems and subsequent successes in academic achievements and agricultural education and production The book discusses the contribution of the schools graduates professionals in many fields to the development of Zambia and also documents their humanitarian work Above all it is an account written by two Chipembi girls from the perspective of the girls themselves illustrating the hardships the achievements the fun the friendships and the faith that sustained so many of them in their years at school and in their later lives

Regional Economic Outlook, October 2015 International Monetary Fund, 2015-10-27 Growth in sub Saharan Africa has weakened after more than a decade of solid growth although this overall outlook masks considerable variation across the region Some countries have been negatively affected by falling prices of their main commodity exports Oil exporting countries including Nigeria and Angola have been hit hard by falling revenues and the resulting fiscal adjustments while middle income countries such as Ghana South Africa and Zambia are also facing unfavorable conditions This October 2015 report discusses the fiscal and monetary policy adjustments necessary for these countries to adapt to the new environment Chapter 2 looks at competitiveness in the region analyzing the substantial trade integration that accompanied the recent period of high growth and policy actions to nurture new sources of growth Chapter 3 looks at the implications for the region of persistently high income and gender inequality and ways to reduce them The Origin and Growth of Geography as a discipline at South Africa Universities Gustav Visser, Ronnie Donaldson, Cecil Seethal, 2016-09-20 Aging with HIV in Sub-Saharan Africa Mark Brennan-Ing, Kristen E. Porter, Jennifer E. Kaufman, Catherine MacPhail, Janet Seeley, 2022-06-16

With the development of effective antiretroviral therapies ART in the mid 1990s HIV became a treatable although serious condition and people who are adherent to HIV medications can attain normal or near normal life expectancies Because of the success of ART people 50 and older now make up a majority of people with HIV in high income countries and other places where ART is accessible The aging of the HIV epidemic is a global trend that is also being observed in low and middle income countries including countries in sub Saharan Africa where the greatest number of older people with HIV reside 3.7 million While globally over half of older adults with HIV are in sub Saharan Africa we have little information about the circumstances needs and resiliencies of this population which limits our ability to craft effective policy and programmatic responses to aging with HIV in this region At present our understanding of HIV and aging is dominated by information from the U S and Western Europe where the epidemiology of HIV and the infrastructure to provide social care are markedly different than in sub Saharan Africa Aging with HIV in Sub Saharan Africa addresses this gap in our knowledge by providing current research and perspectives on a range of health and psychosocial topics concerning these older adults from across this region This volume provides a unique and timely overview of growing older with HIV in a sub Saharan African context covering such topics as epidemiology health and functioning and social support as well as policy and program implications to support those growing older with HIV There are very few published volumes that address HIV and aging and this is the first book to consider HIV and aging in sub Saharan Africa Most publications in this area focus on HIV and aging in Uganda and South Africa This volume broadens the scope with contributions from authors working in West Africa Botswana and Kenya The range of topics covered here will be useful to professionals in a range of disciplines including psychology epidemiology gerontology sociology health care public health and social work

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias, David K. Evans, Indhira Santos, 2019-01-31 Despite strong recent economic growth Sub Saharan Africa has levels of economic transformation poverty reduction and skill development far below those of other regions Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity growth inclusion and adaptability can help to accelerate the region's economic transformation in the 21st century Sub Saharan Africa's growing working age population presents a major opportunity to increase shared prosperity Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years and more children are in school today than ever before Yet systems for building skills in this population have fallen short and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects In half of the countries fewer than two in every three children complete primary school even fewer reach and complete higher levels of education Learning outcomes have been persistently poor leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills literacy and numeracy among children young people and adults The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in many countries functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress Multiple agencies at the central and local levels are involved in skills development strategies making skills everyone's problem but no one's responsibility Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuit of national skills development goals The Skills Balancing Act in Sub Saharan Africa Investing in Skills for Productivity Inclusivity and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skill investments Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysis and synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and what market and institutional failures affect skills formation What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including family investments private sector institutions schools and other public programs How those systems can be strengthened How the most vulnerable individuals those who fall outside the standard systems and have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported Countries will face trade offs often stark ones that will have distributional impacts and a bearing on their development path Committed leaders reform coalitions and well coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub Saharan Africa

Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development John Weiss, Michael Tribe, 2015-09-16 The Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development is a global overview of industrialisation Each chapter will provide readers with contemporary insights into this essential aspect of economic development Industrialisation has been at the forefront of discussion on economic development since the earliest days of development economics But over the last fifty years the manufacturing sectors of different countries and regions have grown at strikingly different rates In 1960 developing countries took a very small share of global manufacturing production Today the position had changed radically with fast growth of manufacturing in many parts of what was originally the developing world particularly in China and the rest of East Asia On the other hand countries in Africa and parts of Latin America have been largely left behind by this process of industrialisation This volume aims to illuminate this uneven development and takes stock of the current issues that hinder and support industrialisation in low and middle income economies This Handbook is a collection of chapters on different aspects of industrialisation experience in a range of countries Key themes include the role of manufacturing in growth the nature of structural change at different stages of development the role of manufacturing in employment creation alternative options for trade and industrial policy the key role of technology and technical change and the impact of globalisation and the spread of global value chains and foreign direct investment on prospects for industrialisation Several chapters discuss individual country experiences with examples from India Mexico South Africa and Tanzania as well as an overview of African industrialisation This authoritative Handbook will be a key reference source for those studying or wishing to understand contemporary economic development Offering inspiration and direction for future research this landmark volume will be of crucial importance to all development economics scholars and researchers
