

Sonnet 18 by William Shakespeare

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date:

Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimm'd;
And every fair from fair sometime declines,
By chance or nature's changing course untrimm'd;

But thy eternal summer shall not fade
Nor lose possession of that fair thou owest;
Nor shall Death brag thou wanderest in his shade,
When in eternal lines to time thou growest:

So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Laying The Foundation Shakespeare Sonnet 18:

Mind in Character David K. Weiser, 1987 This book is about poetry rather than theory Shakespeare's poetry I find remains more relevant and more rewarding than any theory however elaborate as to who if anyone should read a text and if so how they should do it In other words I do not intend another prolegomena for future studies of the reader in the text and or the text in the reader I simply have written what I think the sonnets are about what they say and how they say it I do not attempt to speak for the reader as I know little about him or her but only for myself What interests me especially is the behavior of Shakespeare's sonnet speaker the coherent psychological entity projected by the speaking voice in these poems I do not identify that speaker with the historical William Shakespeare knowing scarcely more about him than about the reader
