Le Bataillon Maori:

Translating and Interpreting in Australia and New Zealand Judy Wakabayashi, Minako O'Hagan, 2021-11-29 This volume explores Australian and New Zealand experiences of translation and interpreting T I with a special focus on the formative impact of geocultural contexts Through the critical lenses of practitioners scholars and related professionals working in and on these two countries the contributors seek a better understanding of T I practices and discourses in this richly multilingual and multicultural region Building on recent work in translation and interpreting studies that extends attention to sites outside of Europe and the Americas this volume considers the geocultural and geopolitical factors that have helped shape T I in these Pacific neighbours especially how the practices and conceptualization of T I have been closely tied with immigration Contributors examine the significant role T I plays in everyday communication across varied sectors including education health business and legal contexts as well as in crisis situations cultural and creative settings and initiatives to revitalize Indigenous languages The book also looks to the broader implications beyond the Australian and New Zealand translationscape making it of relevance to T I scholars elsewhere as well as those with an interest in Indigenous studies and minority languages

Georges Baudoux's Jean M'Barai The Trepang Fisherman Karin Speedy, 2015-01-01 Between 1860 and 1910 Australian governments sanctioned and then tried to stop the trafficking of South Sea Islanders to Queensland as forced labourers Over 60 000 Islanders were lured from their villages tricked transported forced to work in the harsh Queensland bush and then repatriated Most Islanders returned with little savings to find their communities deeply scarred by the blackbirding trade and the internecine tribal conflict it had provoked Georges Baudoux 1865 1949 was brought up amongst the Islanders who experienced the raw and competing greed of French British and Australian colonialism Son of a French prison commander stationed in New Caledonia Baudoux lead a colourful life amongst the Pacific islands and deep in the brousse bush before becoming an author and capturing the stories of his travels and importantly the experiences of friends and colleagues as life in the islands changed forever In recognition of his work he was awarded the esteemed Palmes Acad miques the French medal for literary and academic achievement Jean M Barai is one of his best works Expertly translated by Dr Karin Speedy and published here in English for the first time this book exposes the rich complex and brutal world of a South Sea Islander caught up in the duplicitous trade that came to be known as Blackbirding It is an exciting provocative and often astonishing account drawing on the lived experience of people known to the author In her critical introduction Dr Speedy uncovers not just the author and his intriguing life a life that spanned the uprising of the Paris communards in 1870 to post Second World War reconstruction in the Pacific but also the challenges for scholars working in and undertaking translations in the Francophone Anglophone colonial postcolonial sphere Here where empires languages and Pacific peoples collide the nuances of culture and terminology really matter if we are to find meaning amongst the shifting tides of use Accompanied by photographs postcards cartoons and maps this is a book to read and re read to contemplate ingenuity and inhumanity and the price all cultures pay as they are tested by forces beyond their control It is a story that still resonates today as we reflect on the experiences and resilience of the Pacific South Sea Islanders who contributed to modern Australia the many that left and the descendants of those who stayed Le bataillon maori Patricia Grace, 2014-01-15 1943 campagne d'Italie Peu de temps après avoir quitté leurs terres ancestrales pour Wellington la capitale néo-zélandaise trois frères pour des raisons différentes s'engagent volontairement dans le 28^e Bataillon maori et se retrouvent sur le front durant la terrible bataille de Monte Cassino C'est l'occasion pour Patricia Grace de réfléchir la réalité de la guerre aux motivations personnelles de ses jeunes héros et de retracer un épisode marquant de l'histoire néo-zélandaise Bien plus qu'un récit de guerre Le Bataillon maori est une histoire de fierté et de sacrifice de famille de fraternité et d'amour qui avec beaucoup d'humour et de émotion et sans aucun sentimentalisme nous invite au voyage
