Model Science Teacher Preparation Programs Jon

Pedersen, Tetsuo Iozaki, Toshihide Hirano, 2017-02-01 This volume will focus on a much needed comparison of science teacher preparation from around the world. In recent times, last 5 years, much has been written and communicated both in the popular press and within the annals of research-oriented publications about the performance of students internationally in math and science. Although not a new discussion or debate, many countries are held as exemplars in how they educate their youth and subsequently how they educate their teachers. Given this situation and given the fact that there is ample evidence to show that some countries' youth perform better on tests such as the Program for International Student Assessment (PISA) and we know that teachers significantly contribute to the performance of students, it is time that we look at the specific attributes of teacher preparation worldwide. Although this volume will not look at every country that is in the comparator group for PISA and other measures, we have contacted over 18 potential authors in the same number of countries in which there is ample evidence to show successes regarding student performance and quality teacher preparation programs. The intent of the book is not just to report on the success of each nation. Rather, the intent is to ask authors to take a critical look at the process by which science teachers are educated and share with the reader both the positive and negative aspects of such preparation programs. For all 15 contributed chapters, the editors have analyzed each and from this constructed from the data an analysis and report in a final chapter on the exemplary qualities from various nations and make specific recommendations regarding science teacher preparation for the global community.

Addressing Issues of Learner Diversity in English Language Education Tran, Thao Quoc, Duong, Tham My, 2024-04-22 In the dynamic context of English language education, learners bring many differences in identity, motivation, engagement, ability, and more. Addressing Issues of Learner Diversity in English Language Education recognizes that traditional one-size-fits-all approaches to language education are insufficient in meeting the needs of a varied and global learner population. It grapples with effectively teaching English to individuals with diverse linguistic backgrounds, learning styles, and cultural contexts. The challenges range from learner autonomy and motivation issues to navigating mixed-level classes and integrating technology into language teaching. Drawing on current research trends and cutting-edge methodologies, this book captures the diverse voices of contributors from various ESL/EFL settings, offering context-specific solutions to the myriad challenges faced in language education. The book illuminates the nuanced phenomena within English language education; it showcases innovative theoretical frameworks and up-to-date research findings. By addressing learners as singular individuals and collectives, the publication guides educators in enhancing individual competencies and maximizing the potential of each learner.

Seeing White Jean Halley, Amy Eshleman, Ramya Mahadevan, Vijaya, 2022-01-14 Seeing White: An Introduction to White Privilege and Race, Second Edition, is an interdisciplinary supplemental textbook that challenges undergraduate students to see race as everyone's issue. The book's early chapters establish a solid understanding of privilege and power, leading to a critical exploration of discrimination. The authors also draw upon key theoretical perspectives such as cultural materialism critical race theory and the social construction of race to provide students with the tools to discuss racial privilege The book s interdisciplinary approach including perspectives from sociology psychology history and economics provides a holistic and accessible introduction to the challenging issue of race Throughout the book compelling concrete examples and detailed definitions of terminology help students to understand theoretical perspectives and research evidence Discussion questions at the end of each chapter encourage students to think critically about the theories and evidence often prompting students to relate the material in the text to their own experiences New to this Edition New Chapter 4 White Supremacy and Other Forms of Everyday Racism provides a history of white supremacy and its links to racism today New research on racial disparities in health equity helps debunk the idea of race as a biological category Chapter 2 Revised Chapter 6 Socioeconomic Class and White Privilege offers new material on the economic privilege of whiteness and the uneven distribution of American wealth Expanded history and discussion of Immigration laws including Chinese Exclusion Act Immigration Act of 1924 and 1965 Hart Celler Act present immigration in a global context and challenge anti immigration rhetoric New as well as updated stories on exclusion from white spaces and the normativity of white culture engage students in critical reflection
