Indigenous Sacred Natural Sites and Spiritual

Governance John Studley, 2018-10-26 Since time immemorial indigenous people have engaged in legal relationships with other than human persons These relationships are exemplified in enspirited sacred natural sites which are owned and governed by numina spirits that can potentially place legal demands on humankind in return for protection and blessing Although conservationists recognise the biodiverse significance of most sacred natural sites the role of spiritual agency by other than human persons is not well understood Consequently sacred natural sites typically lack legal status and IUCN designated protection More recent ecocentric and posthuman worldviews and polycentric legal frameworks have allowed courts and legislatures to grant rights to nature and juristic personhood and standing to biophysical entities This book examines the indigenous literature and recent legal cases as a pretext for granting juristic personhood to enspirited sacred natural sites The author draws on two decades of his research among Tibetans in Kham southwest China to provide a detailed case study It is argued that juristic personhood is contingent upon the presence and agency of a resident numina and that recognition should be given to their role in spiritual governance over their jurisdiction The book concludes by recommending that advocacy organisations help indigenous people with test cases to secure standing for threatened sacred natural sites SNS and calls upon IUCN UNESCO MAB and WHS ASEAN Heritage and EuroNatura to retrospectively re designate their properties reserves parks and initiatives so that SNS and spiritual governance are fully recognised and embraced It will be of great interest to advanced students and researchers in environmental law nature conservation religion and anthropology
