Basic Engineering Mathematics Volume - I (For 1st Semester of RGPV, Bhopal) Dass H.K. & Verma Rama, Basic Engineering Mathematics Volume iCEER2014-McMaster Digest Mohamed Bakr,Ahmed Elsharabasy,2014-11-18 International Conference on Engineering Education and Research Validating Technological Innovation David Coniam,Peter Falvey,2016-04-02 This book discusses Hong Kong s use of onscreen marking OSM in public examinations Given that Hong Kong leads the way in OSM innovation this book has arisen from a recognised need to provide a comprehensive coherent account of the findings of various separate but linked validation studies of onscreen public examinations in Hong Kong The authors discuss their experience of the validation process demonstrating how high stakes innovation should be fully validated by a series of research studies in order to satisfy key stakeholders Modeling Individual Differences in Perceptual Decision Making Joseph W. Hout,Cheng-Ta Yang,James T. Townsend,2017-01-18 To deal with the abundant amount of information in the environment in order to achieve our goals human beings adopt a strategy to accumulate some information and filter out other information to ultimately make decisions Since the development of cognitive science in the 1960s researchers have been interested in understanding how human beings process and accumulate information for decision making Researchers have conducted extensive behavioral studies and applied a wide range of modeling tools to study human behavior in simple detection tasks and two choice decision tasks e g discrimination classification In general researchers often assume that the manner in which information is processed for decision making is invariant across individuals given a particular experimental context Independent variables including speed accuracy instructions stimulus properties i e intensity and characteristics of the participants i e aging cognitive ability are assumed to affect the parameters in a model i e speed of information accumulation response bias but not the way that participants process information e g the order of information processing Given these assumptions much modeling has been accomplished based on the grouped data rather than the individual data However a growing number of studies have demonstrated that there were individual differences in the perceptual decision process In the same task context different groups of the participants may process information in different manners The capacity and architecture of the decision mechanism were found to vary across individuals implying that humans decision strategies can vary depending on the context to maximize their performance In this special issue we focused on a particular subset of cognitive models particularly accumulator models multinomial processing trees and systems factorial technology SFT as applied to perceptual decision making The motivation for the focus on perceptual decision making is threefold Empirical studies of perception have grown out of a history of making a large number of observations for each individual so as to achieve precise estimates of each individual s performance This type of data rather than a small number of observations per individual is most amenable to achieving precision in individual level and group level cognitive modeling Second the interaction between the acquisition of perceptual

information and the decisions based on that information to the extent that those processes are distinguishable offers rich data for scientific exploration Finally there is an increasing interest in the practical application of individual variation in perceptual ability whether to inform perceptual training and expertise or to guide personnel decisions Although these practical applications are beyond the scope of this issue we hope that the research presented herein may serve as the foundation for future endeavors in that domain

Teaching Computing Henry M. Walker, 2018-04-24 Teaching can be intimidating for beginning faculty Some graduate schools and some computing faculty provide guidance and mentoring but many do not Often a new faculty member is assigned to teach a course with little guidance input or feedback Teaching Computing A Practitioner s Perspective addresses such challenges by providing a solid resource for both new and experienced computing faculty The book serves as a practical easy to use resource covering a wide range of topics in a collection of focused down to earth chapters Based on the authors extensive teaching experience and his teaching oriented columns that span 20 years and informed by computing education research the book provides numerous elements that are designed to connect with teaching practitioners including A wide range of teaching topics and basic elements of teaching including tips and techniques Practical tone the book serves as a down to earth practitioners guide Short focused chapters Coherent and convenient organization Mix of general educational perspectives and computing specific elements Connections between teaching in general and teaching computing Both historical and contemporary perspectives This book presents practical approaches tips and techniques that provide a strong starting place for new computing faculty and perspectives for reflection by seasoned faculty wishing to freshen their own teaching
