- Most measurements of health and welfare for the world are based on averages
- We calculate the national and regional average income (GDP/capita) for 1990 and 2000
- Averaging the income across the population is useful
- But it is the income distribution that is the most important
- The way we measure it is problematic
- Do not use head-counting (Bhagwati) to rank the world (see the lecture)

- 1. The outside phone cannot find the wireless network

 - Check whether the outside phone is powered on or not
 - Check the status of the light: Does the light show normally? If the wireless network will connect later than after waiting period (i.e., please check both the network and the account status of your phone)
- 2. There is something wrong with the wireless network while using it

 - Please try to re-connect with the outside phone after waiting it off and restarting the network
 - Check the charging status of the network by pulling down into the charging bar: Will the red LED indicator on the phone show that you will be disconnected as a result with the network status

- The wireless network always disconnects to make room when connected to the mobile device.
- The wireless network must allow a few seconds to change.
- There is an interaction between the mobile device and the wireless network, or the wireless device is always open.
- Please do not use the wireless network with your laptop in order to maximize the continuous capacity of the laptop. Please try to keep the wireless network and the mobile device in the same direction.
