Hobohemia and the Crucifixion Machine Todd McCallum,2014-12-28 In the early years of the Great Depression thousands of unemployed homeless transients settled into Vancouver s hobo jungle The jungle operated as a distinct community in which goods were exchanged and shared directly without benefit of currency The organization of life was immediate and consensual conducted in the absence of capital accumulation But as the transients moved from the jungles to the city they made innumerable demands on Vancouver s Relief Department consuming financial resources at a rate that threatened the city with bankruptcy In response the municipality instituted a card control system no longer offering relief recipients currency to do with as they chose It also implemented new investigative and assessment procedures including office spies to weed out organizational inefficiencies McCallum argues that threatened by this ungovernable society Vancouver s Relief Department employed Fordist management methods that ultimately stripped the transients of their individuality Vancouver s municipal government entered into contractual relationships with dozens of private businesses tendering bids for meals in much the same fashion as for printing jobs and construction projects As a result entrepreneurs clamoured to get their share of the state spending With the emergence of work relief camps the provincial government harnessed the only currency that homeless men possessed their muscle This new form of unfree labour aided the province in developing its tourist driven image economy as well as facilitating the transportation of natural resources and manufactured goods It also led eventually to the most significant protest movement of 1930s Canada the On to Ottawa Trek Hobohemia and the Crucifixion Machine explores the connections between the history of transiency and that of Fordism offering a new interpretation of the economic and political crises that wracked Canada in the early years of the Great Depression A Bibliography of the History of Canadian Science and Technology Arnold E. Roos,Canadian Science and Technology Historical Association,1995 New Technical Books New York Public Library,1975 American Machinist ,1910 Unguarded Border Donald W. Maxwell,2023-05-12 The United States is accustomed to accepting waves of migrants who are fleeing oppressive conditions and political persecution in their home countries But in the 1960s and 1970s the flow of migration reversed as over fifty thousand Americans fled across the border to Canada to resist military service during the Vietnam War or to escape their homeland's hawkish society Unguarded Border tells their stories and in the process describes a migrant experience that does not fit the usual paradigms. Rather than treating these American refugees as unwelcome foreigners, Canada embraced them, refusing to extradite draft resisters or military deserters and not even requiring passports for the border crossing. And instead of forming close-knit migrant communities, most of these migrants sought to integrate themselves within Canadian society. Historian Donald W. Maxwell explores how these Americans in exile forged cosmopolitan identities, coming to regard themselves as global citizens, a status complicated by the Canadian government's attempts to claim them and the U.S. government's eventual efforts to reclaim them. Unguarded Border offers a new perspective on a movement that permanently changed perceptions of compulsory military service, migration and national identity. Applied Mechanics Reviews, 2000      Canadian Books in Print, 2003      The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1978      Canadian Literature, 1977      Canadian Books in Print 2002 Edited by Butler Marian, Marian Butler, 2002-02.
