INTRODUCTION

LEGISLATION

More than a 1/3 of workers reported in the Health and Safety Executive's first National Survey on Manual Handling and Musculoskeletal Disorders are likely to be injured over the next 10 years. The Department of Health estimates that musculoskeletal injury costs the economy about £10 billion each year. It is a leading cause of absence from work. A further 1.5 million workers suffer from the number of accidents associated with these conditions.

TYPES OF INJURY

The back is a series of interlocking vertebrae. These are separated by discs which support the spine. There is a natural curvature to your spine which is essential for its function.

The types of injury that occur are:

1. Strains, both immediate and those that occur over time due to repeated movements.
2. Sprains, both acute and chronic, and also related to the spine.

Anywhere in the musculoskeletal system can be injured.
