H. Julien, R. E. McFadyen, Jim Cullen, 2012 Biological control of weeds has been practiced for over 100 years and Australia has been a leader in this weed management technique The classical example of control of prickly pears in Australia by the cactus moth Cactoblastis cactorum which was imported from the Americas helped to set the future for biocontrol of weeds in many countries Since then there have been many projects using Classical Biological Control to manage numerous weed species many of which have been successful Importantly there have been no serious negative non target impacts the technique when practiced as it is in Australia is safe and environmentally friendly Economic assessments have shown that biocontrol of weeds in Australia has provided exceedingly high benefit to cost ratios This book reviews biological control of weeds in Australia to 2011 covering over 90 weed species and a multitude of biological control agents and potential agents Each chapter has been written by practicing biological control of weeds researchers and provides details of the weed the history of its biological control exploration for agents potential agents studied and agents released and the outcomes of those releases Many weeds were successfully controlled some were not many projects are still underway some have just begun however all are reported in detail in this book Biological Control of Weeds in Australia will provide invaluable information for biological control researchers in Australia and elsewhere Agents used in Australia could be of immense value to other countries that suffer from the same weeds as Australia The studies reported here provide direction to future research and provide examples and knowledge for researchers and students KEY FEATURES A unique collation of information for Australian weed research and management Contains all the information about biological control of weeds in Australia in one book Provides key references for further information Will become a well cited publication Plant Protection Quarterly ,1993 American Journal of Botany ,2000 Vegetable Seeds Gregory E. Welbaum, 2024-01-29 Most food and fiber crops are produced from seed This means that the world's population is dependent on annual seed production for its food supply Vegetable seed production is much different and more challenging than production of grain crops This book explains the biology and technology behind producing maintaining and enhancing the quality of vegetable seeds from breeding through to the marketed product It begins with six chapters on a broad range of seed related topics the importance of seeds reproductive biology of plants genetic improvement strategies quality assurance of seed production post harvest seed enhancement and organic production The remaining chapters cover seed production in eleven important vegetable families Each chapter provides a description of the botany types and cultivars genetic improvement pollination soil fertility management pest management crop production harvesting post harvest handling and seed yields The aim of this book is to educate how to produce high quality vegetable seeds Incorporating both current methodologies and recent research results it is suitable for students researchers and professionals in the seed industry The Floricultural Cabinet, and Florists Magazine ,1912 Documents of the Assembly of the State of New York New York (State). Global Perspectives on Underutilized Crops Munir Ozturk,Khalid Rehman Hakeem,Muhammad Ashraf,Muhammad Sajid Aqeel Ahmad,2018-05-17 Increase in world population extreme weather conditions decrease in fresh water supplies and changes of dietary habits are major issues that affect global food security We are expected to face the challenges of land use by 2050 because population will reach 9 billion while agricultural productivity losses are expected due to overuse of lands How can we feed the next generations in a manner that respects our finite natural resources Managing our resources in a sustainable way have only begun for selected crops Much remains to be done to increase food yield Cropping practices capable of sustainable production need to be elaborated especially in fragile ecosystems Typical applications will include the improvement and use of genetic resources crop management and diversification diffusion of improved varieties development of cropping systems sustainable cropping systems for areas prone to environmental degradation use of agro ecological data for crop production forecasting and networks for regional coordination and data exchange The impetus behind this book is to bring attention to a cropping system that bears direct relevance to sustainable agriculture and food security Underutilized crops are found in numerous agricultural ecosystems and often survive mainly in marginal areas It is timely to review their status because in recent decades scientific and economic interests have emerged which focus on lesser known cultivated species Underutilized crops have a great potential to alleviate hunger directly through increasing food production in challenging environments where major crops are severely limited Global Perspectives on Underutilized Crops is therefore topical and highlights the unmet agricultural challenges that we face today This book is an important resource for students and researchers of crop science and agricultural policy makers Bulletin ,1917 Bulletin ...
