of environmental deterioration by industry is not any more the chimneys and other process related emissions but the products and services produced. Products are regarded as carriers of pollution; they are not only a potential source of pollution and waste during their use; they are also a cause of resource depletion, energy consumption and emissions during their life, starting with the extraction of the raw materials and ending with their disposal, i.e. connecting production and consumption stages. The challenge of these decades is now the greening of products and services. The new focus on products.

cp Oosterhuis/Rubik Scholli 1996 was introduced as a policy approach of shared responsibility in which different actors are involved along the life cycle of a product, each having specific responsibilities.

Life Cycle Assessment (LCA) Allan A. Jensen, 1998 Life Cycle Assessment: New Developments And Multi-disciplinary Applications Hsien Hui Khoo, Reginald B H Tan, 2022-01-19 Life cycle assessment (LCA) is internationally accepted as a core topic in the field of environmental management in various industries for obtaining a complete picture of the environmental impacts of products or processes. In contrast to other types of environmental management tools or sustainability assessment methods, LCA methodologies take a holistic approach to include all relevant processes starting from the extraction of natural resources to various manufacturing stages that lead to the final product. Following an evidence approach, LCA is underpinned by quantitative methodologies to study real world problems and uncover hidden impacts beyond the conventional boundary of a single stage manufacturing system to develop sustainable strategies that consider regional or global production chains. This book offers multi-disciplinary perspectives of new LCA developments and applications spanning from data variability to ecosystem services plus the evaluation of the net greenhouse gas from Carbon Capture and Utilization (CCU) methods and waste management. Perspectives of green chemistry principles via LCA combined with life cycle atom economy approaches are explored. Industrial symbiosis concepts, LCA as an Entrepreneurial Tool for Business Management and Green Innovations and blockchain enabled LCA are also presented.

Life Cycle Assessment (LCA) - Quo Vadis? S. Schaltegger, 1996-08-28 LCA Quo vadis discusses overarching topics, new developments and major problems of Life Cycle Assessment (LCA) and compares LCA with site specific environmental management. The text profits from two years of interdisciplinary coordinated research activities of the Priority Programme Environment of the Swiss National Science Foundation. How should system boundaries of a product life cycle be drawn? How can environmental interventions be allocated to products? How are background inventory data collected and used? How can imprecision in the LCA method be ascertained and checked? How can relevant environmental interventions be distinguished from irrelevant ones? What requirements should a software tool for LCA meet? A concept of site specific LCA is proposed in response to criticism of the current approach of LCA. Furthermore, managerial eco-controlling, the emerging method of site specific environmental management, is discussed. The book concludes with an outlook of possible paths in the future development of LCA.
