The Office Assistant in Medical Practice Portia M. Frederick,Mary E. Kinn,1967

Electronic Medical Records Neil S. Skolnik,2010-10-20 Physician adoption of electronic medical records EMRs has become a national priority It is said that EMRs have the potential to greatly improve patient care to provide the data needed for more effective population management and quality assurance of both an individual practice s patients and well as patients of large health care systems and the potential to create efficiencies that allow physicians to provide this improved care at a far lower cost than at present There is currently a strong U S government push for physicians to adopt EMR technology with the Obama administration emphasizing the use of EMRs as an important part of the future of health care and urging widespread adoption of this technology by 2014 This timely book for the primary care community offers a concise and easy to read guide for implementing an EMR system Organized in six sections this invaluable title details the general state of the EMR landscape covering the government's incentive program promises and pitfalls of EMR technology issues related to standardization and the range of EMR vendors from which a provider can choose Importantly chapter two provides a detailed and highly instructional account of the experiences that a range of primary care providers have had in implementing EMR systems Chapter three discusses how to effectively choose an EMR system while chapters four and five cover all of the vital pre implementation and implementation issues in establishing an EMR system in the primary care environment Finally chapter six discusses how to optimize and maintain a new EMR system to achieve the full cost savings desired Concise direct but above all honest in recognizing the challenges in choosing and implementing an electronic health record in primary care

Student Review Manual for the Administrative Medical Assistant Mary E. Kinn,1988 Electronic Health Records Richard Garte,2007 Electronic Health Records a foundational course in Health Information Management or Health Information Technology programs prepares students to understand and use electronic records in a medical practice Gartee's first of its kind how to text is designed to train future users of EHR programs to document patient exam diagnosis orders and coding. It contains screen shots, exercises, and activities to provide a complete learning system. Written for everyone in the office who will touch the electronic medical record, course material is suitable for medical and nursing schools, allied health career schools, universities, community colleges, and continuing education programs.

ABOUT THE SOFTWARE

The Student CD that accompanies the book can be networked, used for distance learning, or purchased individually or as a value pack with the book. The software does not come bound in the book. Instructors will receive a copy of the Medcin Software, which is bound into the instructors manual by contacting their local representative. The Medcin Student Edition Software may be value packed with Richard Gartee's Electronic Health Records ISBN 0131564862 for 10.00 more than the price of the text, or as a stand alone Student CDROM ISBN 0131789376 available from Prentice Hall. The software is multi user, allowing students to work simultaneously and keep work separate. Exercise print outs generated from Medcin automatically include the student's login name or ID. Medcin is the licensed core technology in many prominent EHR Systems. 10 out of 15 EHR systems for medical offices use Medcin nomenclature as the technology underlying commercial EHR systems. Students therefore are more likely to apply skills acquired in this course to an EHR application in their office. All work is printed and no exercises require saving. All exercises are designed to be completed during a normal class time. Printers use a standard Windows system. For distance learning, the software allows the student to Print to HTML, which will output the exercise document into a file that can be emailed.
