Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks for physical and psychological health. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, the 10-minute step test, and the 12-minute step test. The walking program also significantly improved the subjects' psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program was a safe and effective intervention for improving the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract. In a series of experiments, we examined the effects of the type of feedback (i.e., correct or incorrect) and the type of question (i.e., multiple choice or open ended) on the accuracy of responses. The results showed that the type of feedback had a significant effect on the accuracy of responses, with correct feedback leading to higher accuracy than incorrect feedback. The type of question also had a significant effect on the accuracy of responses, with multiple choice questions leading to higher accuracy than open ended questions. The interaction between the type of feedback and the type of question was also significant, with correct feedback leading to higher accuracy than incorrect feedback for multiple choice questions, but not for open ended questions.

Monster Loom Instruction Manual:

Narratives of Power in the Ancient World Urška Furlan, Thomas Alexander Husøy, Henry Bohun, 2022-09-30 This volume showcases ways of displaying power in the Ancient world from Egypt's 18th Dynasty encompassing ancient Greece until the Sassanian Empire. It looks at how power was understood as the ability to influence others or events. This premise is applied to the Ancient world analysing a variety of evidence and narratives from this period. The contributors explore the topic through themes such as art, mythology, literature, archaeology and identity. A Manual of Shorthand Jay Ford Laning, 1883 Lectures delivered before the American Institute of Instruction ... including the journal of proceedings (slight variations) American Institute of Instruction, 1902 Manual Training Magazine Charles Alpheus Bennett, William Thomas Bawden, 1934 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Prize Essay and Lectures, Delivered Before the American Institute of Instruction ... Including the Journal of Proceedings American Institute of Instruction, 1902 List of members included in each volume beginning with 1891 The Mozhaish Road Lesley Chamberlain, 2025-04-25 The time is 1978 and Moscow is still the capital of a Communist country. The political police continues to suppress the protests of dissident leader Alexander Razumovsky and his tiny group of supporters. Western observers Howard Wilde and Gels Maybey face an uncertain Christmas after a public rally is roughly broken up in the city's Pushkin Square. But when the elderly Razumovsky suddenly steps down in the New Year and a new young leader emerges, the whole world sees a sign of hope. Can this sluggish downtrodden Russia, despised by its own leaders, suddenly change, inspired by the courage of one Boris Marlinsky? As the Kremlin responds behind the scenes, how close can Western reporters come to grasping the hidden ways of power which seem to seal Russia's troubled fate? This forcefully imagined prequel to the real events of 1991 changes the lives of Howard Wilde and Gels Maybey and their American friends Arthur and Harriet. But what then of their Russian friends? Is it only Western hearts and minds that long for freedom along the Mozhaish Road? Australian Books in Print 1994 Thorpe, D.
