The Organic Chem Lab Survival Manual James W. Zubrick, 2003-07-31 Publisher Description Advances in Materials and Pavement Prediction Eyad Masad, Amit Bhasin, Tom Scarpas, Ilaria Menapace, Anupam Kumar, 2018-07-16

Advances in Materials and Pavement Performance Prediction contains the papers presented at the International Conference on Advances in Materials and Pavement Performance Prediction AM3P Doha Qatar 16 18 April 2018 There has been an increasing emphasis internationally in the design and construction of sustainable pavement systems Advances in Materials and Pavement Prediction reflects this development highlighting various approaches to predict pavement performance The contributions discuss links and interactions between material characterization methods empirical predictions mechanistic modeling and statistically sound calibration and validation methods There is also emphasis on comparisons between modeling results and observed performance The topics of the book include but are not limited to Experimental laboratory material characterization Field measurements and in situ material characterization Constitutive modeling and simulation Innovative pavement materials and interface systems Non destructive measurement techniques Surface characterization tire surface interaction pavement noise Pavement rehabilitation Case studies Advances in Materials and Pavement Performance Prediction will be of interest to academics and engineers involved in pavement engineering Commerce Business Daily, 1999-05

The Role of Chemical Markers and Chemometrics in the Identification of Grasses Used as Food in Pre-agrarian South West Asia Michelle Cave, 2004 This work explores the way in which novel chemical criteria can be used to identify charred remains of grains of small grained grasses used as food by pre agrarian hunter gatherers in south western Asia but which have hitherto rarely been identified with any precision The grass family Gramineae or Poaceae is the most diverse abundant and widespread family of higher plants on the planet Grasses correspondingly have enormous ecological and economic importance worldwide Their importance is reflected in the prominent role of grain from wild grasses in hunter gatherer subsistence In order to reconstruct past subsistence practices and diet especially of arid zone hunter gatherers it is important to identify the remains of grasses recovered from archaeological sites However the recovered grass remains are most often charred therefore the interpretive potential can be realized only if these charred remains are accurately identified at the level of genus and in some cases species There are enormous problems in identifying charred remains particularly when relying totally on gross morphological criteria There is therefore a need for alternative criteria such as that utilized by chemical analytical techniques The core rationale in applying the different chemical techniques is the same throughout grains are taken from modern grasses of known identity and spanning a spectrum of taxa likely to include all the charred ancient specimens to be identified the unknowns These modern grains are then analysed to generate spectra Equivalent spectra from unknowns are then compared with those from the modern grains to effect an identification Standard practice has hitherto involved comparing the two sets of spectra know and unknowns by visual inspection i e by eye However identifications based on such comparisons are inevitably to some degree untestable and unrepeatable and this represents a long standing problem in chemistry generally In the present project the author has therefore explored the use of chemometrics i e the use of statistical systems to compare spectra in a manner that is rigorously testable and repeatable This is an entirely new development and has never previously been applied in the analysis of archaeological data

Solid Fuels and Heavy Hydrocarbon Liquids: Thermal Characterization and Analysis Rafael Kandiyoti, Alan Herod, Keith Bartle, 2006-04-06 The first strand involves a critical overview of the design of experimental methods used for examining the thermal behaviour of solid fuels pyrolysis liquefaction and gasification while the second will emphasise chemical structures and molecular mass distributions of coal derived tars extracts and pitches petroleum derived asphaltenes and biomass derived heavy hydrocarbon liquids Two major interdependent strands in the study of fossil and renewable fuel utilisation are focused on within this text i Thermal characterisation of solid fuels including various ranks of coals biomass and waste and ii The analytical characterisation of heavy hydrocarbon liquids covering coal petroleum and biomass derived heavy fractions Two major interdependent strands in the study of fossil and renewable fuel utilisation are focused on within this text i Thermal characterisation of solid fuels including various ranks of coals biomass and waste and ii The analytical

The First Farmers of Central Europe Penny Bickle, Alasdair Whittle, 2013-07-09 From about 5500 cal BC to soon after 5000 cal BC the lifeways of the first farmers of central Europe the LBK culture Linearbandkeramik are seen in distinctive practices of longhouse use settlement forms landscape choice subsistence material culture and mortuary rites Within the five or more centuries of LBK existence a dynamic sequence of changes can be seen in for instance the expansion and increasing density of settlement progressive regionalisation in pottery decoration and at the end some signs of stress or even localised crisis Although showing many features in common across its very broad distribution however the LBK phenomenon was not everywhere the same and there is a complicated mixture of uniformity and diversity This major study takes a strikingly large regional sample from northern Hungary westwards along the Danube to Alsace in the upper Rhine valley and addresses the question of the extent of diversity in the lifeways of developed and late LBK communities through a wide ranging study of diet lifetime mobility health and physical condition the presentation of the bodies of the deceased in mortuary ritual It uses an innovative combination of isotopic principally carbon nitrogen and strontium with some oxygen osteological and archaeological analysis to address difference and change across the LBK and to reflect on cultural change in general
