There are many jobs available with a degree in Biological Laboratory Science. Possible careers (gone over in BLS orientation) include industry research, academics, government, sales or marketing, and project management. Other career paths include professional degrees or postgraduate degrees. The career I am most interested in is the Forensic Science Technician career. The Salary for Forensic Science Technicians varies greatly. The lowest 10 percent paid $34,600 and the highest 10 percent paid $97,200. State governments are the highest paying starting around $59,250, local government and testing laboratories falling in the middle at $58,950 and $48,000 respectively, while medical and diagnostics laboratories start at the least amount at around $40,650. Forensic science technicians work in both laboratories and on crime scenes. These duties include according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics: at crime scenes "analyzing crime scenes to determine what evidence should be collected and how take photographs of the crime scene and evidence make sketches of the crime scene record observations and findings, such as the location and position of evidence collect evidence, including weapons, fingerprints, and bodily fluids catalog and preserve evidence for transfer to crime labs reconstruct crime scenes". According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in laboratories the duties required are "performing chemical, biological, and microscopic analyses on evidence taken from crime scenes exploring possible links between suspects and criminal activity, using the results of DNA or other scientific analyses consulting with experts in specialized fields, such as toxicology (the study of poisons and their effect on the body) and odontology (a branch of forensic medicine that concentrates on teeth)". To be a Forensic Science Technician it is required to have a bachelor's degree in a natural science, such as chemistry or biology, or in forensic science. Many forensic scientists will have an undergraduate degree in the natural sciences and a master's degree in forensic science. Forensic science technicians will receive on-the-job training before they can work on cases independently. Certifications and licenses are not usually necessary for the entry-level of this job. Ideally, I would like to work in either Illinois or New York Certain areas in Illinois and New York have a good need for forensic scientists, normally located close to a large city. Illinois has an employment of 450 and a location quotient of .69. New York has an employment of 840 and a location quotient of .81. These numbers are higher than the average for the United States. Possible employers include the New York City Department of health/mental hygiene, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of State Police State of Massachusetts. All three of these companies are state or government-run. I am interested in a state or government-run company because I would like to have the flexibility of traveling. Some of the skills a forensic science technician employer is looking for are communication, critical-thinking, detail-oriented, math, science, and problem-solving skills. For communication skills, a forensic science technician is required to write reports and testify in court. They also have to be able to work well with other law enforcement officials and specialists. Critical-thinking skills are also a good skill to have,...

Juggling Flaming Chain Saws Joanne M. Marshall, Jeffrey S. Brooks, Kathleen M. Brown, Leslie Hazle Bussey, Bonnie Fusarelli, Catherine A. Lugg, Latish C. Reed, George Theoharis, Mark A. Gooden, 2012-11-01 Challenges of work life balance in the academy stem from policies and practices which remain from the time when higher education was populated mostly by married White male faculty Those faculty were successful in their academic work because they depended upon the support of their wives to manage many of the not work aspects of their lives Imagine a tweedy middle aged white man coming home from the university to greet his wife and children and eat the dinner she's prepared for him and then disappearing into his study for the rest of the evening with his pipe to write and think great thoughts If that professor ever existed he is now emeritus Juggling Flaming Chainsaws is the first book in a new series with Information Age Publishing on these challenges of managing academic work and not work It uses the methodology of autoethnography to introduce the work life issues faced by scholars in educational leadership While the experiences of scholars in this volume are echoed across other fields in higher education educational leadership is unique because of its emphasis on preparing people for leadership roles within higher education and for preK 12 schools Authors include people at different places on their career and life course trajectory people who are partnered and single gay and straight with children and without caring for elders and managing illness They hail from different geographic areas of the nation different ethnic backgrounds and different types of institutions What all have in common is commitment to engaging with this topic to reflecting deeply upon their own experience and to sharing that experience with the rest of us Essays That Will Get You into Law School Dan Kaufman,Chris Dowhan,2003-10-01 Prospective law school students will find advice and instruction in preparing their all important admission essay for acceptance into law school Some 75 model essays on a wide variety of subjects are presented with a critical analysis of each This book also tells how to organize subject material then write and edit a finished essay The model essays were written by students who were accepted by many of America s leading law schools Flying Magazine ,1965-12 Drum ,2008 My Life as an Author Martin Farquhar Tupper,1886 Focus Martha E.
