Comforts of Home charts the evolution of mechanical systems from central heating to lighting from kitchen to bathroom from washing machine to vacuum cleaner on which we all depend and without which most of us could hardly imagine surviving. It is also the story of the people responsible for the revolution of convenience in the home: people like Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, a British Loyalist inventor and spy who fled his home in the American colonies in 1776. His genius of invention returned in the form of inventions with practical impact on everyday life in the household. Or like architects Benjamin Latrobe and James Gallier Jr who defined the cutting edge of modern convenience for their times. The Comforts of Home is also the story of ordinary people like David and Ida Eisenhower who provided their son Dwight and his brothers with a home that increased in comfort the way most American homes did: bit by bit, appliance by appliance, advance by advance as new technology became cheaper and more widespread and more a part of everyday life. The story of the convenience of modern living is compellingly traced in this delightfully written book, illustrated with nearly 200 photographs and vintage illustrations. Front and back illustrations c 1892 show a Standard Gas Machine apparatus that was used for supplying one's own home with illuminating gas in the age of gaslight, courtesy of Smithsonian Institution. Inset shows delivery of a 1960s automatic Ice Maker refrigerator courtesy of Whirlpool Corporation.

Product Creation Philip H. Francis, 2010-05-11 Now more than ever a company's success indeed its survival depends on a firmwide effort to create the best products and bring them to market quicker than competitors. Going beyond the traditional focus on design and production exclusively, product development expert Philip H. Francis provides senior managers with the methods and tools to orchestrate the entire enterprise for creating a legacy of product excellence. For the first time Francis presents a holistic view of product creation: not just the core elements of engineering and industrial design but also design's interface with manufacturing, the customer's voice and quality commitments and the essential functions of technology management and leadership. From his unique vantage point as a former professor and researcher as well as a chief technology officer and director of advanced manufacturing technology, Francis presents the nine key business functions of new product development: NPD, manufacturing strategy, IT systems, issues of leadership and culture, customer satisfaction, quality, operations and measurement, intellectual property, the management of research and development and technology. In immensely readable prose, Francis devotes a chapter to each function, explaining how managers can implement and manage each of these nine NPD functions. Francis enriches his arguments with real world examples of triumphs and failures in a variety of industries, from consumer products such as furniture to business products such as networking software He offers hands on suggestions and strategies for every stage in the product development process including Ideas for Action sections containing killer questions that can eliminate a product at any stage Special sections of the book elaborate on the steps to take during key NPD processes Written for those trained in technology as well as business oriented industrial managers Product Creation will be timely and necessary reading for CEOs engineers designers marketing managers IT officers as well as anyone concerned with product development from conception to market Modern Plastics Worldwide ,2005 Production and Operations Management, 2001-2002 P.
