Nkomo, Carolyn McKinney, Linda Chisholm, 2004 School integration means among other things that the divisions created by apartheid need to be addressed systematically and systemically Integration is not merely about changing the racial demographics of learner and educator bodies It means schools changing to meet the needs of all children fostering meaningful interaction among learners in the classroom on the playground and in extra-mural activities as well as instilling a human rights culture It means constructing curricula texts and pedagogies that are informed by a democratic ethos and it requires teachers school managers and communities that are equipped to promote a democratic school environment In short it is about inclusivity and social cohesion And the issue of integration is as pertinent internationally as it is in South Africa questions of race racism citizenship and diversity are central to school systems throughout the world This book contains the proceedings of a colloquium held in October 2003 attended by leading South African and international researchers to take stock of the status quo in school integration and identify new directions research should be taking to support the process of change Southern African Books in Print, 1994 Progress, Change and Development in Early Childhood Education and Care Elizabeth Coates,Dorothy Faulkner,2017-10-02 In 2000 the Millennium Development Goals set out targets aimed at creating a safer more prosperous and more equitable world If these goals were to be achieved children s lives would indeed be transformed In this collection achievements against these targets are identified with each contributor examining the progress made in early years provision in Australia China England Greece the Netherlands Portugal South Africa and Sweden They highlight the priorities and agendas of their respective governments and focus on the trends and issues which are particularly relevant to each situation thereby revealing the social and educational inequalities that persist across countries A common theme running through this volume concerns the political tensions that arise when governments and educators hold fundamentally different views about the nature and purpose of early years education and the needs of children and families It is clear that although the past two decades have seen many changes in attitude towards the importance of the early years of life politically economically and environmentally much still remains to be done if the Millennium Development Goals for young children and their families are to be fully met Despite this this volume demonstrates that those who work in this area continue to experience a deep concern for the well being of young children which transcends cultures frontiers and political and sectarian divides This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Early Years Education
