Life Science Memo For November Paper 1 2014:

Risk Regulation in the Internal Market Maria Weimer, 2019-03-13 This book offers a topical inquiry into the legal and political limits of EU regulation in the field of risk and new technologies surrounded by techno scientific complexity uncertainty and societal contestation It uses agricultural biotechnology as a paradigmatic example to illustrate the complex intertwinement between environmental public health economic and social concerns in risk regulation Weimer analyses the drawbacks of the EU approach to agricultural biotechnology showing that its reductionism i e the narrow understanding of GMO risks as well as the exclusion of broader societal concerns related to environmental and social sustainability has undermined both the legitimacy and effectiveness of EU regulation in this area Resistance to this approach however has also triggered legal innovations prompting us to re think EU internal market law including the way in which it manages the tensions between unity and diversity and between social and economic concerns This text offers fresh and original insights into how far the EU can go in harmonizing regulatory approaches to risk At the same time it proposes new ways of re thinking EU risk regulation to make it more responsive to different perspectives on risk and technology A unique feature of this book is that it contributes to various strains of scholarship including risk regulation internal market law public administration and studies of governance and regulation as well as connecting these themes to broader debates about the legitimacy of European integration and new ways of differentiated integration As a result it assists in re imagining the EU internal market and its regulation as a site of diversity

Strengthening Data Science Methods for Department of Defense Personnel and Readiness Missions National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Mathematical Sciences and Their Applications, Committee on Applied and Theoretical Statistics, Committee on Strengthening Data Science Methods for Department of Defense Personnel and Readiness Missions, 2017-03-06 The Office of the Under Secretary of Defense Personnel Readiness referred to throughout this report as P R is responsible for the total force management of all Department of Defense DoD components including the recruitment readiness and retention of personnel Its work and policies are supported by a number of organizations both within DoD including the Defense Manpower Data Center DMDC and externally including the federally funded research and development centers FFRDCs that work for DoD P R must be able to answer questions for the Secretary of Defense such as how to recruit people with an aptitude for and interest in various specialties and along particular career tracks and how to assess on an ongoing basis service members career satisfaction and their ability to meet new challenges P R must also address larger scale questions such as how the current realignment of forces to the Asia Pacific area and other regions will affect recruitment readiness and retention While DoD makes use of large scale data and mathematical analysis in intelligence surveillance reconnaissance and elsewhere exploiting techniques such as complex network analysis machine learning streaming social media analysis and anomaly detection these skills and capabilities have not been applied as well to the personnel and readiness enterprise Strengthening Data Science Methods for Department of Defense Personnel and Readiness Missions offers and roadmap and implementation plan for the integration of data analysis in support of decisions within the purview of P R Assured Destruction David Bath,2020-03-15 Assured Destruction Building the Ballistic Missile Culture of the U S Air Force documents the rapid development of nuclear ballistic missiles in the United States and their equally swift demise after the Cuban Missile Crisis revealing how these drastic changes negatively influenced both the Air Force and the missile community David W Bath contends that the struggle to create and control nuclear ballistic missiles threatened both the dominance of the United States during an intensifying Cold War and the strategic airpower mission of the newly created Air Force The book details the strenuous efforts required to create and prepare a missile arsenal before the Cuban Missile Crisis which occurred only five years after the first missile was declared operational It uses the personal recollections of former missileers and the professional military education theses they wrote to highlight some of the concerns that have faced the missileers who operated and worked on these powerful weapons from 1957 to the present The highlight of the book however is the personal stories of the missileers who served during the missile crisis revealing the efforts that they went to in order to prepare these unique and untried weapons for what many thought might become the third world war

Shared Governance for Sustainable Working Landscapes Timothy M. Gieseke,2016-08-05 Sustaining our agricultural landscapes is no longer just a technical scientific or even political problem but it has evolved into a socially complex so called wicked problem of conflicting social governance and economics This creates an extreme economic obstacle where the value of ecosystem services remains low and diffuse and the transactions costs remain high and multiple Using Uber like business platform technology and a shared governance model a symbiotic demand for environmental benefits is created Enabling multi sector transactions for environmental benefits this platform innovation would remedy the tragedy of the commons the economic nemesis to achieving landscape sustainability In a nutshell to sustain our agricultural landscapes a transdisciplinary approach supported by a shared governance model housed within a multi sided platform is needed This book introduces an assessment framework identifying governance actors styles and ratios for socio ecological systems The assessment uses a new governance compass to identify the types of actors completing which tasks and identifies the styles of governance used to complete the tasks It is aimed to anyone involved in sustainability science agricultural policy planning or integrated landscape design How Data Happened Chris Wiggins,Matthew L. Jones,2023-03-21 Fascinating Jill Lepore The New Yorker A sweeping history of data and its technical political and ethical impact on our world From facial recognition capable of checking people into flights or identifying undocumented residents to automated decision systems that inform who gets loans and who receives bail each of us moves through a world determined by data empowered algorithms But these technologies didn't just appear they are part of a history that goes back centuries from the census enshrined in the US Constitution to the birth of eugenics in Victorian Britain to the development of Google search Expanding on the popular course they created at Columbia University Chris Wiggins and Matthew L Jones illuminate the ways in which data has long been used as a tool and a weapon in arguing for what is true as well as a means of rearranging or defending power They explore how data was created and curated as well as how new mathematical and computational techniques developed to contend with that data serve to shape people ideas society military operations and economies Although technology and mathematics are at its heart the story of data ultimately concerns an unstable game among states corporations and people How were new technical and scientific capabilities developed who supported advanced or funded these capabilities or transitions and how did they change who could do what from what and to whom Wiggins and Jones focus on these questions as they trace data s historical arc and look to the future By understanding the trajectory of data where it has been and where it might yet go Wiggins and Jones argue that we can understand how to bend it to ends that we collectively choose with intentionality and purpose Low Fertility, Institutions, and their Policies Ronald R. Rindfuss, Minja Kim Choe, 2016-06-16

This volume examines ten economically advanced countries in Europe and Asia that have experienced different levels of fertility decline It offers readers a cross country perspective on the causes and consequences of low birth rates and the different policy responses to this worrying trend The countries examined are not only diverse geographically historically and culturally but also have different policies and institutions in place They include six very low fertility countries Austria Czech Republic Hungary Italy Spain and Taiwan and four that have close to replacement level fertility United Kingdom Norway Canada and France Although fertility has gone down in all these countries over the past 50 years the chapters examine the institutional policy and cultural factors that have led some countries to have much lower fertility rates than others In addition the final chapter provides a cross country comparison of individual perceptions about obstacles to fertility based on survey data and government support for families This broad overview along with a general introduction helps put the specific country papers in context As birth rates continue to decline there is increasing concern about the fate of social welfare systems including healthcare and programs for the elderly This book will help readers to better understand the root causes of such problems with its insightful discussion on how a country s institutions policies and culture shape fertility trends and levels
