Motivation Factors Related to Academic Achievement William Walter Farquhar, 1963 Motivation Factors Related to Academic Achievement William Walter Farquhar, 1963 Motivational Factors in School Achievement Martin L. Maehr, 1982 Motivational factors in the prediction of achievement Irving Slabodkin, 1954 The Effects of Motivational Factors on Student Achievement in STEM Mara Lynne Banfield, 2020 This study examines motivational factors and how they affect student achievement as well as teacher and student perceptions of these factors in a STEM school The focus of this research is to determine if there is an association between overall reported motivation and student achievement as measured by End of Course performance and Grade Point Average GPA in a STEM school This study utilizes mixed methods research and examines the MUSIC Model of Motivation which educators use to assess motivation and study students perceptions of their classes Jones 2017 This research investigates the factors in the MUSIC Model of Motivation and the effect of motivational factors on student achievement and learning The research suggests a correlation between the success factor and achievement as measured through state mandated End of Course assessments Ohio Department of Education 2018 The results suggest the strongest correlation between motivation and achievement End of Course in American History The research examines student and educator perceptions of motivational factors Both educators and students perceive the caring factor to be the highest Interest is the lowest scoring factor for students while empowerment is the lowest scoring factor for teachers Educators summarize through interviews the role of the educator as a facilitator of learning and a motivator that combines the factors to engage students Educators in this study strongly emphasize the importance of the caring factor in a school setting They argue that this factor is crucial in the STEM school which is a public school of choice The research implements reflective practices through qualitative research questions based on the quantitative results Motivational Factors & English Achievement Hojat Jodai, 2012 Success in learning a foreign language is influenced by both affective and cognitive factors One of the most widely accepted affective factors in foreign language learning is motivation Motivation is the most used concept for explaining the failure or success of a language learner

Considering the significance of motivation in second language acquisition this book investigated the effect of motivational factors on English achievement The wider concluding argument of this book is that motivation and its constructs are context dependent and therefore any language learning context has its own unique motivational model Thank you for the summary of your research It is very interesting R C Gardner Ph D Professor Emeritus Department of Psychology University of Western Ontario Hojat Jodai has done a very systematic research using the most interesting statistical analysis I surmise that the study is good enough to be a source of several academic paper publications Amir Mahdavi Zafarghandi PhD graduate of Essex University U K Assistant Professor English Language Dept University of Guilan Iran handbook established the concept of competence as an organizing framework for the field of achievement motivation. With an increased focus on connecting theory to application, the second edition incorporates diverse perspectives on why and how individuals are motivated to work toward competence in school, work, sports, and other settings. Leading authorities present cutting-edge findings on the psychological, sociocultural, and biological processes that shape competence motivation across development, analyzing the role of intelligence, self-regulated learning, emotions, creativity, gender, and racial stereotypes, self-perceptions, achievement values, parenting practices, teacher behaviors, workplace environments, and many other factors. As a special bonus, purchasers of the second edition can download a supplemental e-book featuring several notable, highly cited chapters from the first edition. New to This Edition: Most chapters are new, reflecting over a decade of theoretical and methodological developments. Each chapter now has an applied as well as conceptual focus, showcasing advances in intervention research. Additional topics: self-regulation in early childhood, self-determination theory, challenge and threat appraisals, performance incentives, achievement emotions, job burnout, gene-environment interactions, class-based models of competence, and the impact of social group membership. Supplemental e-book featuring selected chapters from the prior edition.

Exploring the Role of Motivational Factors in the Academic Achievement of EFL Learners Ekrem Solak, 2012. The purpose of this research is to explore the role of motivational factors in the academic achievement of EFL learners. The research was conducted at a State University Faculty of Education in Turkey. The participants were 230 freshman prospective teachers from four different academic majors taking English class. Attitude Motivation Test Battery, which was composed of two parts: a demographic part and the questionnaire, was used to collect data about the participants' views on motivational factors influencing their academic achievement. Then, the data collected from the questionnaire was compared with the test scores of the participants at the end of the semester. The results of the research suggest that most of the motivational factors had a significant difference in the academic achievement of Turkish EFL learners. Furthermore, gender and academic major were directly affected by the motivational factors.
