Caves and the Ancient Greek Mind Yulia Ustinova, 2009-02-12 Caves and the Ancient Greek Mind analyses techniques of searching for ultimate wisdom in ancient Greece The Greeks perceived mental experiences of exceptional intensity as resulting from divine intervention They believed that to share in the immortals knowledge one had to liberate the soul from the burden of the mortal body by attaining an altered state of consciousness that is by merging with a superhuman being or through possession by a deity These states were often attained by inspired mediums impresarios of the gods prophets poets and sages who descended into caves or underground chambers Yulia Ustinova juxtaposes ancient testimonies with the results of modern neuropsychological research This novel approach enables an examination of religious phenomena not only from the outside but also from the inside it penetrates the consciousness of people who were engaged in the vision quest and demonstrates that the darkness of the caves provided conditions vital for their activities Paris and environs. Pondrom, 1974-03-29 For the best part of a thousand years English poets have gone to school to the French declared Ezra Pound in 1913 Whatever the truth of this assertion for all of English literature its accuracy for Pound's own period is well established Both he and T S Eliot wrote frankly of the debt which they owed to their French predecessors and this fact has long been recognised by students of English literature With the recognition of this influence went the assumption that Eliot and Pound were themselves responsible for its transmission
