La Migration Des Ly:

Immigration Detention in the European Union Izabella Majcher, Michael Flynn, Mariette Grange, 2020-03-04 This book offers a unique comparative assessment of the evolution of immigration detention systems in European Union member states since the onset of the refugee crisis By applying an analytical framework premised on international human rights law in assessing domestic detention regimes the book reveals the extent to which EU legislation has led to the adoption of laws and practices that may disregard fundamental rights and standards While emphasizing policies and laws adopted in response to the refugee crisis the volume also shows how these policies have evolved and in many cases grown more restrictive even as the crisis has begun to recede from the borders of many European countries To sharpen awareness of contrasting developments across the region the book's country chapters are organised into geographic sections that reveal how variations in migration pressures have in some cases resulted in contrasting detention practices even as the EU directives have sought to harmonise immigration laws A critical focus of the book are the evolving domestic norms related to grounds for detention length of detention non custodial alternatives to detention the treatment of children and conditions of detention With its systematic and comparative assessment of immigration detention regimes across the EU the book will be helpful for both academics and practitioners who seek a comprehensive guide to the evolution of one of today's more important human rights dilemmas states efforts to control global migration

General Immunology provides a general overview of the immune system. It presents topics in immunology from all living groups treating cells, tissues, organs, and organismal levels of biological organization. The book contains 23 chapters organized into eight sections. Section I serves as an introduction to immunology, a science, a sketch of its history, some of its more recent contributors, something about gathering facts, immunology journals, and the entire biomedical enterprise of which immunology is just a part. Section II is devoted to antigens, while Section III examines the immune system in chordates and the ontogeny of the immune system. Section IV on cells of the immune system covers monocytes, macrophages, the three granulocytic types, and mast cells. Section V deals with phagocytosis and the interaction of lymphocytes. Section VI is devoted to antigens in relation to antibody synthesis, antigen-antibody interactions, immunoglobulin structure, and immunoglobulin assembly. Section VII on organs of the immune system examines bone marrow, thymus, spleen, lymph nodes, and lymphoid aggregations. Section VIII discusses the evolution of the immune system. This text was written for advanced undergraduates. However, its comprehensiveness makes it useful to immunologists and biologists at all levels, as well as medical students and clinicians.
