Key Thinkers on Space and Place Phil Hubbard, Rob Kitchin, Gill Valentine, 2004-05-25 A comprehensive guide to the latest work on space Each entry is a short interpretative essay outlining the contributions made by the key theorists The Politics of Urban Development Clarence Nathan Stone, Heywood T. Sanders, 1987 In the past twenty years the study of urban politics has shifted from a predominant concern with political culture and ethos to a preoccupation with political economy particularly that of urban development Urban scholars have come to recognize that cities are shaped by forces beyond their boundaries From that focus have emerged the views that cities are clearly engaged in economic competition that market processes are shaped by national policy decisions sometimes intentionally and sometimes inadvertently and that the costs and benefits of economic growth are unevenly distributed But what else needs to be said about the policies and politics of urban development To supplement prevailing theories The Politics of Urban Development argues that the role of local actors in making development decisions merits closer study Whatever the structural constraints politics still matters Collectively the essays provide ample evidence that local government officials and other community actors do not simply follow the imperatives that derive from the national political economy they are able to assert a significant degree of influence over the shared destiny of an urban population The impact of the collection is to heighten awareness of local political practices and of how and why they make a difference Studies in Political Economy, 1985 The Rise of The Network Society Manuel Castells, 2000-08-15 This book the first in Castells ground breaking trilogy is an account of the economic and social dynamics of the new age of information Based on research in the USA Asia Latin America and Europe it aims to formulate a systematic theory of the information society which takes account of the fundamental effects of information technology on the contemporary world Engines of Ideology Susan Diane Mazur, 2002 Frontiers Past and Future Carl Abbott, 2006 Abbott offers a fruitful new way to read science fiction one that also greatly enriches our understanding of western history and its impact on our collective imagination Detailing the overlap of science fiction and western fiction especially relating to their mutual interest in and concerns about frontier expansionism he reveals an unsuspected common ground that informs the writings of both camps Reviewing the work of many Hugo and Nebula Award winners as well as drawing upon popular film and television series like the Buck Rogers serials Abbott's study journeys across the far reaches of science fiction's universe Understanding Urban Land Values Michael Edwards, David Lovatt, 1980 The Politics of Knowledge in a 'post-industrial' City Michael William Kline, 1995 Civitas/What is City? Theresa Genovese, Linda Eastley, Deanna Snyder, 1998 What constitutes a city How does human settlement in a specific site create a civilization Civitas the latest issue of the Harvard Architectural Review presents a series of provocative responses to these questions Architects critics educators and planners investigate the conflict between contemporary constructs of human settlement and more traditional definitions of cities Through a combination of projects and theoretical essays Civitas aims to provide a more diverse understanding of the nature of urbanism and community The conception of community as an orderly or focused environment in the landscape is an expression predominantly derived from the Western medieval city and perception This idea has been copied transformed and even romanticized but today its structure is no longer the image that dominates the landscape from the introduction to Civitas
