

Scrutiny of Service Tax and Central Excise Returns

The provisions pertaining to filing of returns/declarations/forms under Central Excise and Service tax law are based on the principal of 'self assessment', which means that every assessee should make true and correct disclosures in its returns and pay the taxes due. However, appropriate mechanism was not there (especially for small & medium assessee) which can actually check the appropriateness of the returns filed by assessee. Further, in majority of the cases (except in case of search etc), the instances of tax evasions/leakages are noticed by the Department only during the EA 2000 audits or during the investigations/inquiries etc.

Therefore, it appears that in order to have proper check on the appropriateness of returns filed by small and medium assessee, CBEC has came out with a procedure for making full utilization of a tool of manual scrutiny of returns.

CBEC has recently issued two Circulars No. 185/4/2015-Service Tax, dt: 30/06/2015 and No. 1004/11/2015-CX, dt: 21/07/2015 providing instructions on detailed manual scrutiny of Service Tax and Central Excise Returns. The said instructions for Service Tax are applicable from 1st August 2015 onwards.

Every return scrutiny process consists of 2 types of scrutiny; namely, preliminary scrutiny and detailed scrutiny. Detailed description of both the types of scrutiny has been provided below

I. Preliminary Scrutiny under Service Tax and Central Excise:

Preliminary Scrutiny of returns would be done online on the basis of validation checks incorporated in ACES by the Directorate General of Systems & Date Management. Such Preliminary Scrutiny under Service Tax and Central Excise would cover scrutiny of all the returns filed by the assessee for;

- ☐ Ensuring completeness of the information furnished
- ☐ Ensuring Arithmetic Correctness
- ☐ Ensuring Timely Payment
- ☐ Ensuring Timely Submission of Returns
- ☐ Identification of non-filers and stop fillers of Returns

Returns with certain errors would be marked for Review and Correction which will then be processed by the Range Officers.
