Uprooting University Apartheid in South Africa Teresa A. Barnes, 2018-12-07 South Africa continues to be an object of fascination for people everywhere interested in social justice issues postcolonial studies and critical race theory as manifested by the enormous worldwide attention given to the RhodesMustFall movement In this book Teresa Barnes examines universities complex positioning in the apartheid era and argues that tracing the institutional legacies left by pro apartheid intellectuals are crucial to understanding the fight to transform South African higher education A work of interpretive social history this book investigates three historical dynamics in the relationship between the apartheid system and South African higher education First it explores how the legitimacy of apartheid was historically reproduced in public higher education Second it looks at ways that academics maneuvered through and influenced national and international discourses of political freedom and legitimacy Third it explores how and where stubborn tendrils of apartheid era knowledge production practices survived into and have been combatted during the democratic era in South African universities

Religious Responses to Sex Work and Sex Trafficking Lauren McGrow, 2022-08-01 This book examines the history theological beliefs and current contextual practices of faith based NGOs who work in the area of human trafficking that involves the sex industry There are hundreds of religious organizations around the globe who minister with human trafficking survivors and sex workers but what is really happening on the ground and how do theological beliefs support a faith based response Many of these groups represent their work as a cosmic battle against evil forces yet important structural critiques are ignored in the urgency to rescue women and children Using perspectives from both NGO staff and sex workers an interdisciplinary panel of contributors examine specific organizations highlight marginalized voices and analyze undergirding methodologies In doing so the authors provide clear critiques and establish best practice guidelines for faith based NGOs and future religious leaders affirming an intersection of justice based upon critical reflection and careful action This book addresses with nuance an important topic that is often over simplified It will therefore be of great interest to scholars studying the interaction of religion to sex work and human trafficking as well as academics of religious studies and theology more generally

Making Public in a Privatized World David A. McDonald, 2016-02-15 How do we provide effective public services in a deeply neoliberal world In the wake of the widespread failure of privatisation efforts societies in the global south are increasingly seeking progressive ways of recreating the public sector With contributors ranging from cutting edge scholars to activists working in health water and energy provision and with case studies covering a broad spectrum of localities and actors Making Public in a Privatized World uncovers the radically different ways in which public services are being reshaped from the grassroots up From communities holding the state accountable for public health in rural Guatemala to waste pickers in India and decentralized solar electricity initiatives in Africa the essays in this collection offer probing insights into the complex ways in which people are building genuine alternatives to privatization while also illustrating the challenges which communities face in creating public services which are not subordinated to the logic of the market or to the monolithic state entities of the past
