Federal Laws Regarding the Use of Radar Detectors

The federal radar law is made more complicated with new Colordetective radar detectors. The Communications Act of 1934 guarantees your right to use any electronic device in any frequency band that has been allocated for that use. This law is fundamentally your right as an individual citizen and is not subject to the Communications Act of 1934. Please call your local police department to learn more about this law.

Safety First

One of the purposes of this product is to provide you with information to help you make a decision about whether or not to use a radar detector. It is your responsibility to use the information to make a decision about whether or not to use a radar detector. It is not the responsibility of the manufacturer to make a decision for you. Please call your local police department to learn more about this law.

Safe Driving

However, as well as a general warning of radar use, you are expected to use your radar detector only when the radar is on and only when you are driving.

Security of Your Vehicle

When using your vehicle, always remember to use your radar detector to help you make a decision about whether or not to use a radar detector.
