

THE WATER CYCLE

RIISING UP

Some of the water evaporates from the water full in this picture will evaporate (evap-uh-ayt). Other bodies of water heat from the sun evaporate into water vapor, or gas. The water vapor rises from the ground, rivers, or lake and goes into the air.

HANGING OUT

Water vapor hangs close to percent of Earth's surface in the form of clouds, lakes, and rivers. When water ends up on land then rain, snow, or hail. It may soak into the earth, becoming part of the ground water and leaving the water cycle for a while.

WONDERS OF NATURE

Scientists think that the water we drink, bathe in, and use to grow crops today started here on Earth since long before the time of the dinosaurs. It has been moving around and around in the atmosphere in a nearly endless cycle. But there's not much water in the air. In fact, if all of the atmosphere's water were taken out of the air, it would only cover the globe to a depth of one inch (2.5 cm). It's a good thing, then, that we have the water cycle—Earth's original recycling program. There's time to work on it.

CHILLING OUT

As water vapor cools in the air, it condenses. This means that it changes back into liquid form. You will notice the same kind of thing happening if you pour a cold glass of water on a hot day. Water forms on the outside of the glass. The water vapor in the warm air touches the cold glass and turns to liquid.

FALLING DOWN

After so much water has condensed that the air can't hold it anymore, it falls as precipitation—rain, hail, sleet, or snow—onto Earth's oceans, lakes, and rivers.

RUNNING OFF

Melted snow and rain that run downhill eventually end up in large bodies of water. The transfer of land water to the ocean is called runoff.

LOCATED AT THE BORDERS OF CHINA AND VIETNAM, THE DETIAN WATERFALL IS ONE OF THE LARGEST WATERFALLS IN ASIA. ITS NAME MEANS "VERTIGINOUS BEARDS."

Reading Marx in the Information Age Christian Fuchs, 2015-10-23 Renowned Marxist scholar and critical media theorist Christian Fuchs provides a thorough chapter by chapter introduction to Capital Volume 1 that assists readers in making sense of Karl Marx's most important and groundbreaking work in the information age exploring Marx's key concepts through the lens of media and communication studies via contemporary phenomena like the Internet, digital labour, social media, the media industries and digital class struggles. Through a range of international current day examples, Fuchs emphasises the continued importance of Marx and his work in a time when transnational media companies like Amazon, Google and Facebook play an increasingly important role in global capitalism. Discussion questions and exercises at the end of each chapter help readers to further apply Marx's work to a modern day context.

Indigenous Children's Right to Participate in Law and Policy Development Holly Doel-Mackaway, 2021-09-28 This book presents a model for reforming and developing Indigenous related legislation and policy not only in Australia but also in other jurisdictions. The model provides guidance about how to seek, listen to and respond to the voices of Indigenous children and young people. The participation of Indigenous children and young people when carried out in a culturally and age appropriate way and based on free prior and informed consent is an invaluable resource capable of empowering children and young people and informing Indigenous related legislation and policy. This project contributes to the emerging field of robust ethically sound participatory research with Indigenous children and young people and proposes ways in which Australian and international legislators and policymakers can implement the principle of children's participation by involving Aboriginal children and young people in the development of law and policy pertaining to their lives. This book provides accounts from Aboriginal children and young people detailing their views on how they can be involved in law and policy development in the future. It shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic and will be of interest to researchers, academics, policymakers, legislators and students in the fields of human rights, law, children's rights, participation rights, Indigenous peoples law and family, child and social welfare law.

International Parental Child Abduction and the Law Geraldine Carney, 2024-06-13 Japan has faced widespread scrutiny for failing to properly address international parental child abduction involving its citizens. This book examines how and why Japan has come to have this tarnished image, its response and how it might manage these disputes in the future. In particular, the book explores how Japan engages with international legal frameworks to manage international parental child abduction and what this means in reality for Japanese people and others who come under its wide umbrella. A focus of this examination is how the key international treaty, the Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction, has fared since being introduced in Japan in 2014. Case studies of parental child abduction involving Japan are used throughout to illustrate the legal and social concepts discussed in the book. The struggles of both abducting and left behind parents across fluid international borders reveal seismic social and philosophical shifts in Japan.

that continue to shape its legal landscape This book will be a useful resource for students of Japanese Studies Sociolegal Studies Comparative Law and International Law Children's Rights Law in the Global Human Rights Landscape Eva Brems, Ellen Desmet, Wouter Vandenhoele, 2017-04-21 Children's rights law is often studied and perceived in isolation from the broader field of human rights law This volume explores the inter relationship between children's rights law and more general human rights law in order to see whether elements from each could successfully inform the other Children's rights law has a number of distinctive characteristics such as the emphasis on the best interests of the child the use of general principles and the inclusion of third parties e g parents and other care takers in treaty provisions The first part of this book questions whether these features could be a source of inspiration for general human rights law In part two the reverse question is asked could children's rights law draw inspiration from developments in other branches of human rights law that focus on other specific categories of rights holders such as women persons with disabilities indigenous peoples or older persons Finally the interaction between children's rights law and human rights law and the potential for their isolation inspiration or integration may be coloured or determined by the thematic issue under consideration Therefore the third part of the book studies the interplay between children's rights law and human rights law in the context of specific topics intra family relations LGBTQI marginalization migration media the environment and transnational human rights obligations
