Virtual Labs and Lab Simulations

While the biological sciences are hands-on disciplines, instructors are now often being asked to deliver some of their lab content online, as full online replacements, supplements to prepare for in-person labs, or make-up labs.

These simulations help each student learn the practical and conceptual skills needed, then check for understanding and provide feedback. With adaptive pre-lab and post-lab assessment available, instructors can customize each assignment.

From the instructor's perspective, these simulations may be used in the lecture environment to help students visualize complex scientific processes, such as DNA technology or Gram staining, while at the same time providing a valuable connection between the lecture and lab environments.
