Sustaining Human Progress Khalid Malik, 2014 Most people in most countries have been steadily better in human development. Advances in technology and incomes hold ever greater for longer healthier more secure lives. Sustainability in the Mineral and Energy Sectors Sheila Devasahayam, Kim Dowling, Manoj K. Mahapatra, 2016-09-15 Sustainable practices within the mining and energy sectors are assuming greater significance due to uncertainty and change within the global economy and safety security and health concerns. This book examines sustainability issues facing the mining and energy sectors by addressing six major themes: Mining and Mineral Processing, Metallurgy and Recycling, Environment, Energy, Socioeconomic and Regulatory, and Sustainable Materials and Fleets. Emphasizing an integrated transdisciplinary approach, it deliberates on optimizing mining productivity and energy efficiency and discusses integrated waste management practices. It discusses risk management, cost cutting, and integration of sustainable practices for long term business value. It gives a comprehensive outlook for sustainable mineral futures from academic and industry perspectives covering mine to mill optimization, waste risk and water management, improved efficiencies in mining tools and equipment, and performance indicators for sustainable developments. It covers how innovation and research underpin management of natural resources including sustainable carbon management. Focuses on mining and mineral processing, metallurgy and recycling, the environment, energy, socioeconomic and regulatory issues, and sustainable materials and fleets. Describes metallurgy and recycling and uses economic, environmental, and social parameter analyses to identify areas for improvement in iron, steel, aluminium, lead, zinc, copper, and gold production. Discusses current research on mining performance indicators for sustainable development, sustainability in mining equipment, risk and safety management, and renewable energy resources. Covers alternative and conventional energy sources for the mineral sector as well as water treatment and remediation and energy sustainability in mining. Provides an overview of sustainable carbon management. Offers an interdisciplinary approach with international focus.

Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching Christopher Klopfer, Steve Drew, 2015-10-30 Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching focuses on the emerging global governmental and institutional agenda about higher education teaching quality and the role that peer review can play in supporting improvements in teaching and student outcomes. This agenda is a pervasive element of the further development of higher education internationally through activities of governments, global agencies, institutions of higher education, discrete disciplines, and individual teachers. Many universities have adopted student evaluations as a mechanism to appraise the quality of teaching. These evaluations can be understood as providing a customer centric portrait of quality and when used as the sole arbiter of teaching performance they do not instill confidence in the system of evaluation by academic teaching staff. Providing peer perspectives as counterpoint, whether in a developmental or summative form, goes some way to alleviating this imbalance and is the impetus for the resurgence of interest in peer review and observation of teaching. This book seeks to recognise cases of peer review of teaching in Higher Education to affirm best practices and identify areas that require improvement in establishing local national and international benchmarks of teaching quality

Born to Choose John H Falk, 2017-09-05 Born to Choose is John H Falk s compelling account of why and how we make the endless set of choices we do every second of every day of our lives Synthesizing research from across the biological and social sciences Falk argues that human choice making is an evolutionarily ancient and complex process He suggests that all our choices are influenced by very basic and early evolving needs and that ultimately each choice is designed to support survival in the guise of perceived well being This engaging book breaks new intellectual ground and enhances our understanding not just of human choice making but human behavior overall Alternative Models of Addiction Hanna Pickard, Serge H. Ahmed, Bennett Foddy, 2015-12-07 For much of the 20th century theories of addictive behaviour and motivation were polarized between two models The first model viewed addiction as a moral failure for which addicts are rightly held responsible and judged accordingly The second model in contrast viewed addiction as a specific brain disease caused by neurobiological adaptations occurring in response to chronic drug or alcohol use and over which addicts have no choice or control As our capacity to observe neurobiological phenomena improved the second model became scientific orthodoxy increasingly dominating addiction research and informing public understandings of addiction More recently however a dissenting view has emerged within addiction research based partly on new scientific research and partly on progress in philosophical and psychological understandings of relevant mental phenomena This view does not revert to treating addiction as a moral failure but nonetheless holds that addictive behaviour is fundamentally motivated by choice and subject to at least a degree of voluntary control On this alternative model of addiction addictive behaviour is an instrumental means to ends that are desired by the individual although much controversy exists with respect to the rationality or irrationality of these ends the degree and nature of the voluntary control of addictive behaviour and motivation the explanation of the difference between addictive and non addictive behaviour and motivation and lastly the extent to which addictive behaviour and motivation is correctly characterised as pathological or diseased This research topic includes papers in the traditions of neuroscience psychology philosophy law and social science that explore alternative understandings of addiction
