social class School by school league tables play a central role in the reforms These have created an A to C economy where schools and teachers are judged on the proportion of students attaining five or more grades at levels A to C To satisfy these demands schools are embracing new and ever more selective attempts to identify ability Their assumptions and practices embody a new IQism a simple narrow and regressive ideology of intelligence that labels working class and minority students as likely failures and justifies rationing provision to support those often white middle class boys already marked for success This book reports detailed research in two secondary schools showing the real costs of reform in terms of the pressures on teachers and the rationing of educational opportunity It will be important reading for any teacher researcher or policymaker with an interest in equality in education
