Long Term Implications Of The 2014 Future Years Defense Program:

Long-Term Implications of the 2011 Future Years Defense Program David Arthur, 2011-04 In most years the Department of Defense DoD provides a five or six year plan called the Future Years Defense Program FYDP associated with the budget that it submits to the Congress Because decisions made in the near term can have consequences for the defense budget well beyond that period this report has examined the programs and plans contained in DoD s FYDP and projected their budgetary impact in subsequent years For this analysis the report used the FYDP provided to the Congress in April 2010 which covers fiscal years 2011 through 2015 the most recent plan available when this analysis was conducted The report s projections span 2011 through 2028 Charts and tables This is a print on demand report      Long-term Implications of the 2014 Future Years Defense Program David Alan Arthur, Daniel Frisk, 2011 In most years the Department of Defense DoD provides a five year plan called the Future Years Defense Program FYDP associated with the budget that it submits to the Congress Because decisions made in the near term can have consequences for the defense budget well beyond that period CBO regularly examines DoD s FYDP and projects its budgetary impact roughly a decade beyond the period covered by the FYDP For this analysis CBO used the FYDP that was provided to the Congress in April 2013 that FYDP spans fiscal years 2014 to 2018 and CBO s projections span the years 2014 to 2028      The long-term implications of current defense plans , 2003 In January 2003 the Congressional Budget Office CBO published The Long Term Implications of Current Defense Plans ADA410669 which was based on the fiscal year 2003 budget and the Department of Defense s Future Years Defense Program FYDP of that same year CBO updated that analysis in July 2003 ADA416284 its publication The Long Term Implications of Current Defense Plans Summary Update for Fiscal Year 2004 revised CBO s earlier work to take into account changes incorporated in the President s budget for fiscal year 2004 and the 2004 FYDP Because it was a summary the July 2003 paper omitted many of the detailed data displays contained in CBO s January 2003 study This briefing updates those omitted displays consistent with the 2004 FYDP The briefing does not incorporate changes to the FYDP resulting from Congressional action on the President s fiscal year 2004 budget request      The Long-term Implications of Current Defense Plans Lane Pierrot, 2003 Authors Lane Pierrot and Gregory T Kiley      Long-Term Implications of the 2014 Future Years Defense Program David Arthur, Daniel Frisk, 2014-01-03 In most years the Dept of Defense DoD provides a five year plan called the Future Years Defense Program FYDP associated with the budget that it submits to the Congress Because decisions made in the near term can have consequences for the defense budget well beyond that period the Congressional Budget Office CBO regularly examines DoD s FYDP and projects its budgetary impact roughly a decade beyond the period covered by the FYDP This analysis used the FYDP that DoD provided to the Congress in April 2013 that FYDP spans FY 2014 to 2018 and CBO s projections span the years 2014 to 2028 For FY 2014 DoD requested appropriations totaling 607 billion Of that amount 527 billion was to fund the base programs that constitute the department s normal activities such as the development and procurement of weapon systems and the day to day operations of the military and civilian workforce The remaining 79 billion was requested to pay for what are termed overseas contingency operations OCO the war in Afghanistan and other nonroutine military activities elsewhere Figures and tables This is a print on demand report Long-Term Implications of the 2014 Future Years Defense Program Congressional Budget Office,2014-11-05 In most years the Department of Defense DoD provides a five year plan called the Future Years Defense Program FYDP associated with the budget that it submits to the Congress Because decisions made in the near term can have consequences for the defense budget well beyond that period the Congressional Budget Office CBO regularly examines DoD s FYDP and projects its budgetary impact roughly a decade beyond the period covered by the FYDP For this analysis CBO used the FYDP that was provided to the Congress in April 2013 that FYDP spans fiscal years 2014 to 2018 and CBO s projections span the years 2014 to 2028 For fiscal year 2014 DoD requested appropriations totaling 607 billion Of that amount 527 billion was to fund the base programs that constitute the department s normal activities such as the development and procurement of weapon systems and the day to day operations of the military and civilian workforce The remaining 79 billion was requested to pay for what are termed overseas contingency operations OCO the war in Afghanistan and other nonroutine military activities elsewhere The FYDP describes DoD s plans for its normal activities and therefore generally corresponds to the base budget DoD s 2014 plans are similar to its 2013 plans CBO produced two projections of the base budget costs of DoD s plans expressed in terms of total obligational authority for each fiscal year as reflected in the FYDP and other long term planning documents released by DoD The CBO projection uses CBO s estimates of the costs of military activities and the extent to which those costs will change over time those estimates reflect DoD s experience in recent years For comparison the extension of the FYDP starts with DoD s estimates of the costs of its plans through 2018 and extends them beyond 2018 using DoD s estimates if available and CBO s projections of price and compensation trends for the overall economy if DoD s estimates are not available Neither projection should be viewed as a prediction of future funding for DoD s activities rather the projections are estimates of the costs of executing the department s current plans without changes Under either projection the costs of DoD s plans would rise steadily over time In addition those costs would significantly exceed the limits on budget authority established by the automatic enforcement provisions of the Budget Control Act of 2011 as amended by the American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012 hereafter referred to collectively as the Budget Control Act BCA for all remaining years subject to those limits 2014 through 2021 To close that gap which CBO estimates will average between about 60 billion and about 90 billion per year DoD would have to make sharp cuts to the size of its forces the development and purchase of weapons the extent of its operations and training or some combination of the three America Abroad Stephen G. Brooks,William C. Wohlforth,2016-07-26 A decade and a half of exhausting wars punishing economic setbacks and fast rising rivals has called into question America s fundamental position and purpose in world politics Will the US continue to be the only superpower in the international system Should it continue advancing the world shaping grand strategy it has followed since the Cold War Or should it focus on internal problems America Abroad takes stock of these debates and provides a powerful defense of American globalism Since the end of World War Two world politics has been shaped by two constants America s position as the most powerful state and its strategic choice to be deeply engaged in the world But if America disengages from the world and reduces its footprint overseas core US security and economic interests would be jeopardized While America should remain globally engaged it has to focus primarily on its core interests or run the risk of overextension A bracing rejoinder to the critics of American globalism a more potent force than ever in the Trump era America Abroad is a powerful reminder that a robust American presence is crucial for maintaining world order

Budget Options: Spending options ,2008      Budget Options: V. 2, August 2009 United States. Congressional Budget Office,      U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings United States Naval Institute,2015      Long-Term Implications of the 2015 Future Years Defense Program Congressional Budget Office,2015-04-03 To provide information about its plans beyond the coming year the Department of Defense DoD gener ally develops a five year plan called the Future Years Defense Program FYDP that is associated with the budget it submits to the Congress Because decisions made in the near term can have consequences for the defense budget in the longer term the Congressional Budget Office CBO regularly examines DoD s FYDP and projects its budgetary impact for roughly a decade beyond the period it covers For this analysis CBO used the FYDP that was provided to the Congress in April 2014 it spans fiscal years 2015 to 2019 and CBO s projections span the years 2015 to 2030 For fiscal year 2015 DoD requested appropriations totaling 555 billion Of that amount 496 billion is for the base budget and 59 billion is for what are termed overseas contingency operations OCO The base bud get covers programs that constitute the department s normal activities such as the development and procure ment of weapon systems and the day to day operations of the military and civilian workforce Funding for OCO pays for U S involvement in the war in Afghani stan and other nonroutine military activities elsewhere The FYDP describes DoD s plans for its normal activities and therefore generally corresponds to the base budget DoD s 2015 plans differ from its 2014 plans in important ways For example in an effort to reduce costs the cur rent FYDP includes sizable cuts in the number of military personnel particularly in the Army CBO produced two projections of the base budget costs of DoD s plans as reflected in the FYDP and other long term planning documents released by DoD The CBO projection uses CBO s estimates of the costs of military activities and the extent to which those costs will change over time those estimates reflect DoD s historical experience The FYDP and extension starts with DoD s estimates of the costs of its plans through 2019 and extends them beyond 2019 using DoD s estimates if available and CBO s projections of price and compensa tion trends for the overall economy if DoD s estimates are not available Neither projection should be viewed as a prediction of future funding for DoD s activities rather the projections are estimates of the costs of executing the department s current plans without changes The amount requested for the base budget in 2015 would comply with the limits on budget authority established by the Budget Control Act of 2011 as subsequently modified hereafter referred to simply as the Budget Control Act BCA After 2015 however the costs of DoD's plans under both projections would significantly exceed CBO's estimate of the funding the department would receive under the BCA which limits appropriations for national defense through 2021 To remain in compliance with the BCA after 2015 DoD would have to make sharp additional cuts to the size of its forces curtail the development and purchase of weapons reduce the extent of its operations and training or implement some combination of those three actions Federal Contracts Report, 2003
