Thus Until Emilia Ilieva, Reuben Matheka, 2025-08-04 Thus Until A History of Egerton University is a thorough historical chronological and well researched account of Egerton University from a whites only college when it started in 1939 through to the expansion it has experienced over the years culminating in being a full university More than any other university in Kenya Egerton has a long and colourful history but like all the other universities it has suffered from the political economic and financial challenges of the time especially since the double intake of the 1990s Chapter One provides the required background to the study highlighting agricultural and educational policies and steering away from the Happy Valley hype so characteristic of the period The reader will learn about the Egerton family in Chapter Two and particularly about Lord Egerton himself and the colonial circumstances within which he lived The chapter dispels some of the popularly held myths about him Chapter Three deals with the beginnings of the college and the various structural and curriculum experiments tried out and the kind of enrolment and students it experimented with as an all white establishment The chapter ends with Africans beginning to agitate for change With great attention to detail the later chapters put the university in a broader local and international context thereby increasing its relevance to society A History of Egerton University though heavily footnoted and with a detailed bibliography is written in a simple easy flowing and accessible style community and ecological wellbeing can also allow businesses to flourish economically and socially Green Business Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications is a vital reference source for the latest research findings on the challenges and benefits of implementing sustainability into the core functions of contemporary enterprises focusing on how green approaches improve operations Highlighting a range of topics such as corporate sustainability green enterprises and circular economy this multi volume book is ideally designed for business executives business and marketing professionals business managers academicians and researchers actively involved in the business industry Multifunctional Agriculture Roger Leakey,2017-04-14 In a world increasingly challenged by the need to integrate and understand highly specialized knowledge in a multidisciplinary way this book is innovative and perhaps unique in addressing this challenge It focuses on ideas strategies techniques and practices spanning many disciplines at the interface of agriculture with forestry horticulture plant physiology genetics ecology soil science food science economics and the social and environmental sciences as delivered by intensified and enriched agroforestry Multifunctional Agriculture addresses this complexity using case studies and insights from the needs of African farmers whose livelihoods are constrained by complex interactions between social environmental and economic factors and problems underlying agricultural sustainability in Africa This book therefore provides an important resource for those trying to understand the role of agriculture in the achievement of the new Sustainable Development Goals by providing easily implementable practical and effective methodologies and practices Provides a single source comprehensive insight into agroforestry multifunctional agriculture it s potential challenges and progress Helps readers understand and assess potential opportunity through implementation Includes case studies and real world insights that address common situations and the practical application of best practices Explores the role of multi functional agriculture in mitigating climate change impacts providing value story beyond crop production Agile Data-Oriented Research Tools to Support Smallholder Farm System Transformation James Hammond,Mark Van Wijk,Aniruddha Ghosh,Tim Pagella,Jacob Van Etten,2023-05-09 Smallholder farming systems contribute a substantial quantity of the food consumed in many lower and middle income countries and contribute to the national and local economies Despite the importance of smallholder farming a transformation is needed in order to deliver food security and decent incomes for the farmers themselves and at the national level This transformation must also be sustainable in terms of environmental impacts and social equity in order to be successful in the long term The pressures of population growth climate change and land fragmentation compound the problem Addressing these overlapping issues is a big challenge One obstacle is the lack of good quality granular data linking these issues together Household surveys are the workhorse method for gathering such data but there are well known problems that prevent household survey data from building up a big picture and delivering insights beyond the geographical boundary of each individual study Such obstacles include the lack of access to datasets differences in survey design and respondent biases Agile data oriented research tools can help to overcome these challenges We use the term agile to imply methods that do not attempt exhaustive measurements which are designed to be easy to use and which entail some degree of flexibility in terms of adaptation to local conditions and integration with other tools or methods. Often these methods also nudge the behavior of tool users towards best practices. In recent years various research tools and approaches have been published which fit within our definition of agile data oriented research tools. The domains these tools function in include monitoring and evaluation, intervention targeting, tailored information delivery, citizen science, credit scoring and user feedback collection, all with the overarching aim to improve data quality and access for those studying the sustainable development of smallholder farming systems. The goal of this Research Topic is to better define that niche, the ecosystem of tools and current practices, and to explore how such approaches can provide the underpinning knowledge required for the transformation of smallholder farming systems. One example of an agile data oriented research tool is the Rural Household Multi Indicator Survey (RHoMIS). It is a modular digital system for building household surveys addressing the common topics in smallholder development. It was purposefully designed to give a broad overview of the farm system whilst keeping survey duration to a minimum, to be user friendly in implementation and to be sufficiently flexible to function in a broad variety of locations and projects. Since 2015 it has been used by 30 organizations in 32 countries to interview over 34 000 households. The tool and database are open access and a community of practice is developing around the tool. We particularly welcome contributions that engage with the RHoMIS tool and data. However, we also describe the tool in order to provide an example of what is meant by an agile data oriented research tool and welcome contributions focusing on other tools or methodologies. We encourage the submission of manuscripts addressing the above topic and those which fit within one of the following three sub themes: i) Perspectives or review articles which explore the niche, best practices or promising approaches in agile data oriented research tools for smallholder farm system transformation. Also technology and code articles that describe new tools are welcomed. ii) Original research articles presenting analyses based on data derived from agile data oriented tools used at the project level. Examples include impact evaluations, adoption studies, targeting studies or adaptive management and should reflect on the additional benefit leveraged by the agile method applied. iii) Original research articles that make use of the large amounts of data generated by such agile methods and/or link between agile data and other data sources. Examples include meta analyses of data from multiple studies, layering data collected from different agile tools or linking agile data to remote sensing or large scale modeling outputs.
